LINDY FLYING TO MEXICO

Starts Non-Stop Jump From Washington at 12:29; Figures 26 Hours for 2000 Miles

Washington, Dec. 13.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hoppedfrom Bolling Field here for Mexico City at 12:29 p. m. today. The youthful flying hero started on his non-stop flight of 2,000 miles a few minutes after he had taxied his famous plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, into place on a rain-soaked runway.

After leaving Washington he was first sighted over Lynchburg, Va., at 2:08 p. m., a little less than two hours after his departure.

He plans to make the trip in something less than 26 hours, the exact time being dependent upon how much the speed of his plane is retarded by prevailing winds.

As he first started zooming over the Potomac, Lindbergh seemed to be having difficulty in gaining altitude. As the plane faded in the murky atmosphere hanging over the Capital the flier seemed to be getting better results and quickly disappeared to the southward.

Seven escort planes took the air as Lindbergh started and accompanied him as far as Richmond, Va.

Lindbergh made two attempts to get his plane into the air before, on the third, he finally succeeded in leaving the rain-soaked ground. As he finally soared away the wheels of his plane barely missed the tops of trees at the southern end of the field.

He had to taxi the whole length of the field in order to get a proper start.

Despite the two balky starts, Major Harvey S. Burwell, commander at Bolling Field, said the air hero's final takeoff was one of the most masterful pieces of flying technique he had ever seen.

Lindbergh's start on the epic trip was all the more thrilling

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Dec. 13.—This is written in the office of R. G. Fernald, editor and publisher of the able Santa Barbara Morning Press, on the 400-mile return trip from San Simeon to Hodge, via Los Angeles. On such a trip, the Cadillac burns about $16 worth of gasoline, covering 800 miles, with seven passengers. It is almost cheaper to travel by motor in California than to stay home.

And motoring you see many interesting things, including several unexpected, coming down the "Cuesta Encantada," a hill on which stands the Hearst ranch house. He has fenced in against wolves and coyotes about three thousand acres, and experiments in acclimating animals not native here. You see a herd of 50 bison in one pasture with warning not to get out of your car, in that section of the ranch. Nearby, a small colony of tapirs try to think they are in South America. A dozen kinds of deer, including elk and white deer from Japan, live with the bisons. Cassowaries and ostriches, the two biggest living birds, graze much at home, and a large herd of zebras block the road near them.

In his menagerie near his ranch house, Hearst has a collection of lions, tigers, wolves, bears, leopards, coyotes, cheetahs, eagles, and dozen other creatures, interesting to study at a distance.

Hearst's father kept race horses which Hearst does not, but he makes up for it.

Here at Santa Barbara, they once had a little earthquake; not much harm done, although Eastern newspapers made what they could of it, as usual. If the quake left any signs, they are all gone, and the city buildings are now constructed on a plan that makes them as safe in an earthquake as a market basket would be. There won't be another earthquake, they've had their little

5 ARRESTS IN CHELSEA AS BALLOTING STARTS; HEAVY GUARD AT POLLS

Five men were arrested and police broke up a fight being waged around ex-Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley outside a polling place today as Chelsea voters chose between Quigley and Mayor John J. Whalen for their chief magistrate.

Every Chelsea policeman was on duty to prevent trouble by the excited crowds that gathered around the voting centres.

The fair sex played a prominent part in the electioneering, several hundred women and girls driving automobiles and acting as checkers for the candidates.

One of those arrested admitted he was paid $4 to go to Chelsea from Lawrence and vote under the name of John Weiss of Washington avenue, Chelsea, police said.

Three of the five men arrested were charged with violation of election laws, one was held at police headquarters without any charge against him at the request of an election warden, while the fifth man was accused of assault and battery.

Frank Payson and Thomas Sheehy of Lawrence, charged with attempting to vote illegally, were held in

TESTIFIES TO MARKED BILLS AT POLICE TRIAL

Marked money, totalling $50, was ready to be passed over by him to Motorcycle Officer Henry E. Pelletier, it was testified today by Patsy D'Alessio of Hunting street, Cambridge, at the trial of Pelletier and Lieut.-Inspector Thomas F. Coady.

Pelletier and Coady are on trial in Middlesex Superior Court charged with attempted extortion and conspiracy to get money from D'Alessio in connection with the incident of a parked car in Fresh Pond parkway.

Excitement was injected into the trial today when D'Allessio under cross-examination by James H. Vahey, counsel for Pelletier, shouted an angry query at Vahey as to whether Vahey intended to rob D'Alessio's home.

Atty. Vahey had asked the witness where in the house he kept his money.

Patsy's younger brother, Anthony, 15, testified to Coady's calling at the D'Alessio home and Sergeant Charles E. Bradley, booking officer

STIMSON NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL OF FILIPINOS

Washington, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Henry L. Stimson of New York was nominated by President Coolidge today to be Governor-General of the Philippines.

Stimson was the President's personal envoy to Nicaragua in the peace negotiations there last Spring. The appointment came as a surprise because it was understood Mr. Stimson did not care to assume the responsibilities of the job. He succeeds Major-General Leonard Wood.

In appointing Mr. Stimson, the President took the administration of the Philippines out of the hands of a military officer, but he acted on the assumption that the former Secretary of War would carry out General Wood's policies as well as those of Mr. Coolidge.

Stimson is 60 years old and has long been a leader in the Republican party. He served under President Taft as secretary of war.

BANKER, 74, KILLS WIFE AND DIES

Providence, R. I., Dec. 13 (A.P.).—George E. Sheldon, 74, secretary and treasurer of the Phenix Trust Company at Phenix, who a year and a half ago was held up with other bank employes when the institution was looted of $24,000, today shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide.

The bodies were found in the Sheldon home by their son, Harold. The son said his father had been "run down in health." One other son also survives.

Mr. Sheldon had been secretary-treasurer of the bank for several years and previously had been cashier for more than thirty years.

A meeting of the board of directors of the bank was to have been held today.

An audit of the bank two weeks ago showed that the finances were in proper shape.

Mr. Sheldon left a note reading: "I have stolen no money. Not a cent. But I do not seem able to do things right. I do not want to live. I would rather die."

TESTFIES TO $50 MARKED MONEY AT POLICE TRIAL

on the night Patsy was brought into the North Cambridge station, testified that Pelletier did not ask anyone to smell D'Alessio's breath.

A touch of the dramatic was placed into the trial as D'Alessio spiritedly shouted: "I wasn't trying to protect myself, I didn't give a d—n about myself," in answer to questions concerning Labor Day night, when he was found parked at Fresh Pond Parkway by Pelletier.

A meeting with Captain Hurley of the police and the possession of $50 in marked money destined for Pelletier was revealed in the cross-examination.

MARKED BILLS.

He said he met Captain Hurley at 6 p. m. two nights after Labor Day, drove home and returned to Hurley's house on Inman street after supper.

Q.—At that time did you have any money in your pocket? Vahey asked. A.—Yes.

Q.—Was it marked bills? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Whose money was it? A.—It was mine.

D'Alessio told of his activities Labor Day, saying he visited an aunt at Woburn, where he had one glass of wine. Nothing more to drink that day, he said.

LIGHTS DIMMED.

He met Miss Jihnson, with whom he was parked, shortly after 8 in the evening. He was parked forty minutes when Pelletier rode up side of his machine, he said.

Q.—You werent's doing anything wrong, were you; nothing that you considered breaking the law? A.—If I was, Pelletier certainly would have said so.

Q.—Why did you have your lights dimmed? A.—All the lights were dimmed.

Q.—Pelletier did say you were breaking the law, didn't he? A.—Not to me. ell accused me of being under the influence of liquor, though. I went to the station willingly to prove it. I was stubborn and not as congenial as others in my district.

The attorney then took D'Alessio over the ground covered in his direct examination relating to his movements between Coady and himself and eventually Pelletier.

Q.—You were trying to get Pelletier to do something wrong, weren't you? A.—No.

DIDN'T CARE FOR SELF.

Q.—That night you had the marked bills, weren't you? A.—No.

Q.—When you went there you were going to wait until he asked for the money, were you? A.—No.

Q.—Pelletier made no effort to get them? A.—No.

Q.—The reason you didn't give them to him was because he didn't ask, is that it? A.—Yes.

Q.—You knew that would be wrong to give him the money, didn't you? A.—I was acting under orders.

Q.—You were going to do what you were told whether it was right or wrong? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—You were going to save yourself whether it was right or wrong? A.—Positively not.

American to Aid Carol Radio play organ solos and accompaniment for the various musical numbers.

A large group of famous concert artists will offer vocal solos and sing together as a choir.

BOOKLETS FOR ALL

Every member of the listening audience will be invited to join in the singing, lifting their voices in familiar carol numbers that are peculiarly expressive of the Christmas spirit.

So that everyone may join in this great Christmas Eve service the Boston Evening American will issue booklets free containing the official program and words and music for the carols on Saturday, December 24.

The Boston Evening American concert will be heard from Station WEEI.

Never in history has there been arranged a spiritual observance so impressive in beauty and scope. Never before has it been possible to provide for the organization of such a mammoth chorus of singers. It is estimated that more than 20,000,000 persons will participate in this carol concert.

The concert will begin at 10:30 p. m. on Christmas Eve. At that time those whose radio receiving sets are tuned to the stations linked together for this broadcast will hear majestic strains of music coming from a huge cathedral organ in New York City. This organ overture—a classic by a world-famous composer—will serve as a summons, bidding the people of the nation to join in history's most impressive Christian service.

Following the organ solo one of the country's most noted clergymen will be heard, making an announcement concerning the nature of the program to come and inviting everyone to take an active part.

CADMAN TO SPEAK

Then, through the ether there will go speeding the various musical numbers, each a carefully selected Christmas offering. Interspersed through the program there will be carols that are familiar to everyone and it is these numbers that will be sung by everyone in unison, the voice of the listeners blending with the voices of the broadcast artists.

Announcements of the features of the program, brief stories of the interesting legends connected with the carols, an inspiring Christmas message and the season's greetings will be broadcast by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, the noted Brooklyn minister whose voice has become familiar to millions of persons through his series of Sunday broadcasts.

As Dr. Cadman numbers among the members of his regular radio congregation people representing all walks of life so those who listen to him on Christmas Eve will belong to many races; they will be people of all ages and circumstances, linked by the common bond of Christmas happiness.

COOLIDGES TO JOIN

Borne over many thousands of miles of territory the Boston Evening American Christmas Eve carol concert will reach and be participated in by all types of folk. It is expected that President Coolidge and the members of his family, gathered in the White House, will join the singing.

Members of other families living in splendid mansions will also join the wonderful chorus simultaneously with the hosts who will sing in their homes in cities, towns, hamlets, in farm houses, in forest shacks and even on ships far at sea.

The proudest and the humblest in this country-wide chorus, together will give glorious praise and welcome to the eve of Christmas.

The national concert will last for 90 minutes, concluding as the chimes ring midnight with an inspiring feature which will be announced just before it is presented.

Determined to do everything possible to contribute to the success of this splendid Christmas Eve observance, the Boston Evening American will devote a generous amount of space to announcement of the program and articles pertaining to it on Christmas Eve. Words and music for the carols to be sung by everyone will be printed in a specially prepared, beautifully decorated booklet, which will be a feature of this newspaper on Saturday, December 24.

ORDER YOURS NOW

That there will be an enormous demand for this carol booklet is a certainty. In anticipation of this demand the Boston Evening American will print a tremendous number of extra issues. It is hoped that no one will be unable to get a copy, but in order that the publishers may gauge the demand as closely as possible it is desirable that everyone who can do so place advance orders for the Boston Evening American of Saturday, December 24. No other newspaper in this city will have the official program.

STRIKES BACK AT HUB POSTAL CRITICISM

With unveiled resentment, George H. Doggett, chairman of the Boston Chamber of Commerce sub-Committee on Parcel Post, today took exception to criticism by Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett of the Boston move for faster and better parcel post service.

The Washington official declared he saw in Boston's demand what looked like an attempt to force the government to purchase a portable metal shipping container manufactured here.

"The only reason why a metal container was suggested was that it seemed that was the best idea, but we are open to anything that will improve existing conditions," said Chairman Doggett.

"At a substantial sacrifice of their own time and money, and in the sole interest of better service, our committee or representative businessmen is making an unselfish effort to improve conditions.

"One year ago we suggested improvements to Postmaster General New without result. Last week we sent a similar letter based on another test by the Retail Trade Board. We did not suggest a patented article and we made that clear. Any charge that we are interested in a patented article is untrue. That is a smoke screen and should be denounced as such."

Girl in Taxi Murder Holds Champagne Party in Cell

Valley Field, Que., Dec. 13 (I.N.S.).—Refreshed by the strange circumstance of a sanctioned champagne party in murderers' row, Doris McDonald, ex-chorus girl, stepped into the prisoner's dock in Valley Field's small town courthouse again today and listened attentively while the crown continued its attempts to prove that she and her husband, George McDonold, murdered a taxi driver.

Two cases of champagne were delivered to her cell with the compliments of two of the crown's men who seek to send her to her death, Archie Morrison, deputy county clerk of Malone, N. Y., and E. J. Van Deusen,, waterworks superintendent of Malone.

'HOLY CANDLE' WAS BOMB

Mexico City, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—An attempt to explode a bomb disguised as a holy candle was made at the shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe as many worshippers made their devotions on the annual national holiday devoted to her memory.

The dangerous nature of the candle was discovered before it was lighted.

More than 100,000 persons, mostly Indians, congregated during the day at the shrine. May of them had come from long distances.

For the second time in history there were no priests. They were unable to conduct their offices at the shrine because of the religious restrictions.

10 P. C. CUT AT AMOSKEAG MILLS

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Delegates of the Amoskeag workers' conference met this afternoon with the understanding that they were to receive from the management of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company an announcement of a 10 per cent. wage reduction, effective December 17. The Amoskeag is one of the largest textile mills in the world.

About 9,000 workers are employed by the Amoskeag at present. Today's conference was called under a plan for employe representation in the management which was adopted several years ago. The mills have an annual payroll of $10,000,000.

Ten per cent. wage reductions have been made recently at textile mills in several Maine cities and at a few Massachusetts plants, but none has been announced in New Hampshire. Unsatisfactory business conditions and southern competition have been the causes generally assigned.

SAYS HUSBAND TAUGHT RUTH TO DRINK

New York, Dec. 13.—If they could only know—if they would believe—what kind of a life poor Ruth led, they might not be so ready to condemn her——"

Mrs. Josephine Brown thus defended her condemned daughter as she pored over the few books and papers still left in the Queen's Village home.

"He was so hard to please and so hard to do for," she said, speaking of Albert Snyder, the slain husband who paid with his life for his wife's fascination for the little corset sales man, Henry Judd Grey.

"If only they will let me tell Governor Smith of the long hours of waiting for him, of the way he quarrelled at her because she was young and wanted to go places," the sad little mother said. "If they will let me make the Governor see what it meant to a pretty young wife who'd been admired by many.

"And he drank much more than anybody seems to have known"—(the many whiskey, wine and liquor bottles strewn about the cellar gave mute but eloquent testimony to a passion on the part of some member of the household for the cup that cheers)—"and when he drank he was ugly and domineering.

"He had a domineering mind, and crushed all her originality and spirit. Ruth had spirit and she had a strong mind, but he was older and he was stubborn. Look around the house"—(she waved her hand at the stuffy, crowded room)—"and see what kind of a home he wanted. Doesn't it tell you anything?"

It's desolating, the pathos in Mrs. Josephine Brown's tired eyes, and the hopelessness of her searching looks at those she believes may be able to help her in her anguish, all but chill the soul, even of a case-hardened reporter. There was that look in her eyes as she checked herself in the midst of this recitation of her daughter's marital woes.

"But what's the use of telling all about that?" she mumbled. "They'll only say 'of course she's Ruth's mother and she'd be expected to run Albert Snyder down.'

"She drank, but he taught her to drink, and only to drink, not when or how. He drank for years, and he spent his time that he might have spent with Lorraine and Ruth in fishing or making his own wine or beer or other liquor.

Winter Is Like This to Suit Thin-Clad Girls!

Forecaster George A. Loveland has about decided that modern Winters, to keep pace with twentieth century flappers, have begun to "temper their winds to the shorn lambs."

His conclusion was reached today, the 13th, by the way, as he plotted Summer temperatures registered in the central valleys and predicted a rise in the mercury column here over the next forty-eight hours.

Within eight days of the official advent of the Winter solstice, the entire country today was free of real cold weather, although in the Canadian Northwest temperatures of 20 below zero were recorded.

Police Ban Clamped on Hub Bail Favorites

No police favorites among bail commissioners and stopping of the practice of arresting officers in introducing lawyers to prisoners, were the ultimatums handed down today in general orders from police headquarters, read at all divisions, stations and posts throughout the city.

"Officers are instructed to acquaint themselves with the rule regarding bail commissioners and abide by it," the orders stated.

"A list of bail commissioners is to be shown the prisoner so that he may make his own choice. No favoritism is to be tolerated.

The practise of arresting officers in introducing defendants to lawyers must cease and cease at once."

Friends were surprised to find among the treasured keepsakes and honeymoon mementoes of Mrs. Snyder this photo of Albert Snyder, the husband she and Judd Gray later beat to death. The picture was made at Christmas time shortly after the Snyders' marriage.

FAMILY OF DEAD GIRL STARTLED BY FLASHES

Palmer, Dec. 13.—A flashlight whose beams are reported to throw a miraculous picture of the Christ on walls or other surfaces is the centre of interest here today.

It is a flashlight formerly owned by Madeline Finnerty, 15, a deeply religious girl, who died early last Spring.

According to the girl's family, the flashlight has been examined thoroughly by several people, including Catholic priests, but none has been able to discover anything in the lens or in the flashlight to explain the apparition.

It was three weeks ago when the dead girl's mother, Mrs. Daniel Finnerty, first used the flashlight again following the daughter's death.

AMAZED BY IMAGE.

The mother flashed its beams and was amazed to see the face of Christ outlined on the wall.

Snapping out the light, she pitched the room in darkness, then snapped it on again. The apparition was still there.

Hastily examining the wall, Mrs Finnerty said, she was astounded to discover that it's surface was not marked, and that the image she thought was on the surface had actually come from nowhere, unless it had come from the light beams.

Mrs. Finnerty called members of her family and the light was tried again and again, always with the same result—a distinct projection of the Saviour's likeness.

NEIGHBORS CALLED IN.

Then neighbors were called in to view the declared miracle and members of the clergy were summoned.

All examined the flashlight, taking it apart and testing the lens separately. But it appeared no different from any other flashlight.

According to Mrs. Finnerty, her daughter Madeline found the flashlight a couple of years before her death. The girl used it occasionally but after she died it was put away and was forgotten until the mother came upon the light and used it.

Several families were driven to the street when fire started in the basement of one of the buildings comprising Fellows' Block, Unity and Winthrop avenues, Beachmont, early today.

The blaze was caused by defective wiring according to fire officials. Damage was estimated at about $2,000.

Firemen confined the blaze to the basement and damage was mostly smoke and water. The Fellows' Block is composed of a series of shops and Social and Parker Halls. It is located opposite the Revere Beach and Lynn station.

JUDGE CALLS IT "ATROCIOUS CRIME"

Mrs. West, who admitted killing her husband, because he objected to her going to a bridge party, fainted as judge held her for murder.

WOMAN SLAYER IN COLLAPSE

Painesville, O., Dec. 13 (I.N.S.).—Tortured by the belief that she has already been sentenced to death in the electric chair, Velma West, 21, the so-called "split mind" murderess of her wealthy husband, Edward West, trembled in her cell here today on the verge of a nervous collapse.

Her attorneys are trying to have the charge reduced to second degree murder or manslaughter and to have their client released on bond, pending trial.

a woman with a "split mind" was demonstrated at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing. Up to the time Judge Helter announced his decision Mrs. West was as calm as anyone in the courtroom.

"The defendant is bound over without bail for the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of murder in the first degree," finished the court.

And that finished Velma's composure. She shrieked and sobbed, and finally, when her mother's comforting embrace sought her shoulder, slid to the floor.

ROB HUB GOWN SHOP OF $5000

More than $5,000 worth of fur scarves, coats and gowns and $570 in cash were reported stolen from the Peck & Peck gownshop, Arlington street, when employes arriving today discovered the store ransacked.

The thieves broke a window in the rear of the store police determined.

From the quantity of the loot, Special Officer Dodge of the Back Bay station turned his investigation to the theory that a large auto must have been used by the thieves.

Fingerprint experts were rushed from police headquarters when marks were found on counters and furniture.

The money was in a tin cash box in the cashier's desk.

LINDBERGH DEFIES STORM AS HE STARTS FLIGHT TO MEXICO CITY

LINDY'S MA IS SILENT ON SON'S FLIGHT TO MEXICO

because few had believed he would really dare go up under the weather conditions prevailing.

The water-soaked field was in bad shape and it was necessary to wade in order to reach the celebrated "Spirit of St. Louis" when it was drawn up with its escort ready for departure

Lindbergh had taken precautions to keep his flight a secret all to himself to prevent crowds from swarming over the field and thereby endangering his chances of getting his heavy plane into the air.

With a non-stop flight contemplated, it was necessary to take a big supply of gasoline and oil.

Few See Him Start

As a result of the secrecy surrounding his departure, there was only a small crowd on hand when he climbed aboard his plane, seized the controls and hopped away for his distant goal.

Most of the crowd was composed of army officers and newspapermen. Scores of the curious were flocking to the field, however, as the Lone Eagle spread his wings, and they were rewarded with at least a glimpse of him as the silver-colored "We" circled into the clouded sky.

To supply him with nourishment during the long flight through the Southeastern States, across land to Texas, and thence into Mexico, Lindbergh carried a week's supply of concentrated food and two canteens of water.

As he zoomed away, Lindbergh left two messages. One was addressed to Major Barwell. It said "Many thanks for your co-operation. It has been one hundred percent."

Leaves Two Notes

The other was addressed to Lieutenant H. A. Dinger of the army. It said:

"I certainly appreciate your assistance in preparing for my flight to Mexico City. Please give my thanks to Staff Sergeant R. W. Hooe for the excellent inspection he has given the Spirit of St. Louis."

Lindbergh also2 left word, with Major Burwell to wire President Calles of Mexico of his taking off.

Lindbergh is making the flight on the invitation of President Calles, of Mexico.

Scorns Parachute

The fact that the Mexican government invited him there will result, President Coolidge believes, in an encouragement by that and other governments to the South in a new interest in commercial lines.

While getting ready to hop, Lindbergh wore an eager, happy smile. As usual he obligingly posed for photographers before entering his plane, and he went out of the way to intercede for one photographer who had been put off the field by military authorities.

At the last moment he insisted on placing his food and water supplies in position at the rear of the cabin himself, and then inspected the many instruments on the dash board which guide him as he rides the cloudland trails.

Once seated at the controls and "all set" to go, the flying colonel made a last test of the struts, each movement being checked by an army mechanic at his personal direction.

Colonel Lindbergh, following his idea of working without fuss or feathers, first made known his plans to start on the trip today by phoning the war department shortly after 11 o'clock this morning.

He had received a weather report showing conditions were more propitious for a flight than they probably would be later, and apparently decided the time for action was at hand.

His decision made, Lindbergh completed his plans for a quick hop-off in the same calm way that he did when he was preparing for his transatlantic flight to Paris, which brought a thrill to the world.

Having no idea of failure, he scorned a parachute, as he did on the solitary trip to France.

He studied his charts, his machine and the weather which he will meet, and then quietly said he was going, and that immediately.

In preparation for his epic flight Lindbergh, accompanied by Major Burwell, visited the Bolling Field Engineering hangar in which the Spirit of St. Louis was housed, shortly after 11 a. m.

The doors to the hangar were closed to the public, only newspapermen being allowed to enter. The motor of the plane was started and the plane moved out on the field.

Experts helped Lindbergh test out the motor once it was in place for the take-off and at first Lindbergh expressed himself as not quite satisfied with the way the motor worked.

As he made ready to fly, the sky above Washington was murky and a light drizzle of rain was falling, but this unfavorable local condition seemed not to affect the daring airman.

Spectators began arriving at the field soon after it became public that the young flier intended to take off today, but automobiles were ordered removed off the grounds and a military guard was summoned to keep the sloppy field clear.

A few of Lindbergh's close friends, including Captain Emory S. Land, assistant chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, received personal notice from Lindbergh that he was ready and hurried to the field to see the take-off.

The planes escorting the daring "messenger of the air" included three army, three navy, and one commerce department machines.

A few minutes after he had taken off Lindbergh had left his escort far behind.

While the Colonel's flight to Mexico City and possibly to Havana has no official significance so far as the Government is concerned, President Coolidge is watching it with all the interest that he assumes every American citizen holds.

The President feels that the projection of aviation channels between this country and those of Latin and South America will be augmented by the flight and he hopes that it will be helpful in still further promoting the cause of aviation and commerce.

The sky-riding colonel expects to take a direct air line route to Galveston, Tex., thence south along the coast line of the Gulf of Mexico until dawn shows him his location.

He said that no effort would be made to turn inland until after midnight, and that his course across Mexico would be guided by such conditions as he found were most favorable.

Bids Him Farewell

The last man to speak to Lindbergh before he left was F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, who drove up just as final preparations for the start were completed.

He rushed to the window of the plane, from which Lindbergh had removed the pane, and they exchanged greetings.

The special weather forecast given Lindbergh before he started, indicated that the stormy conditions prevailing at the moment would not improve tomorrow, due to probable showers and considerable cloudiness over the first part of the route.

From Washington to Alabama, the forecast was for partly overcast skies this afternoon with risk of light showers in mountains and with moderate south and southwest winds up to 1,000 feet and strong southwest and west winds at 5,000 feet.

From Alabama to Corpus Christi, the forecast was partly overcast sky tonight with risk of occasional showers late in the night but before daylight on the Texas coast.

Fresh south winds, probably strong at times over Texas, with risk of shift to northwest near Corpus Christi in the early morning up to 1,000 feet and strong southwest winds at 5,000 feet also were predicted.

Calls It "Short Hop"

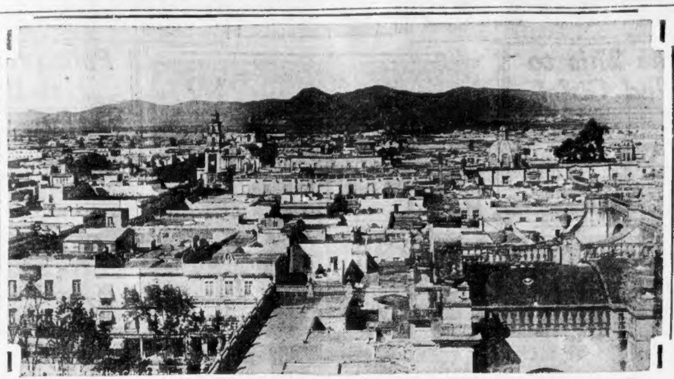
"Lindy's" ship carried about 365 gallons of gasoline, compared with more than 400 gallons carried when she left New York for Paris

The ship reached Paris with a surplus of about 50 gallons, and aviation experts predict that the ship will reach Mexico City with about 100 gallons remaining

In talking with friends just before he started, the colonel said he did not need to give great consideration to the fuel question in a "short" flight like the hop to Mexico City.

The Colonel started on the trip contemplating a stay of at least two days in the Mexican capital.

In discussing arrangements for fuel supplies to be obtained there, he indicated that supplies which reached Mexico City within ten days would be in ample time for his use either on the homeward journey or on any extra flight he may undertake to Havana or possibly to some other capitals in Central America.



AIRPLANE PANORAMIC VIEW OF MEXICO CITY AS IT IS TODAY

Lindy Carries Gun Into Mexico for "Emergency"

Washington, Dec. 13 (I.N.S.).—An army rifle nestled in the cockpit beside Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today when he pointed the nose of his trans-ocean airplane southwestward for the 2,000-mile flight to Mexico City.

Almost half of Lindbergh's flight will be over Mexican territory, and there is always the possibility of a forced landing in the desolate and bandit-infested stretches of Northern Mexico.

His only other equipment consisted of two army canteens of water, an emergency ration kit and two life preservers.

He carried no parachute.

Lindy Loses Escort as He Races Away Through Clouds

Washington, Dec. 13.—While an escort of army and navy planes was tuning up to accompany him on the first leg of his Mexico City hop today Col. Charles A. Lindbergh circled in his famous "We" over Bolling Field.

When the escort finally took the air Lindy headed the nose of "We" into the haze of the southwest and quickly left the escort behind.

The escort planned to follow him as far as Richmond, Va.

LINDY'S MA IS MUM ON HOP

Detroit, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Taking the attitude she observed when Colonel Lindbergh started his famous transatlantic flight, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, the flier's mother declared today his latest undertaking was a matter that concerned him alone.

Called from her chemistry classroom at Cass Technical High School, Mrs. Lindbergh displayed keen interest in the news that her son had started his Washington-Mexico City flight, but declined to speculate upon the probability of its success or failure.

"Now, really, there isn't anything for me to say," she remarked. "It's a matter that concerns him alone."

Asked whether she had faith in the success of the flight, Mrs. Lindbergh said:

"That is something that I never care to talk about."

She then returned to her classroom.

HINCHCLIFFE ILL WITH GRIP IN AMSTERDAM

London, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Surprise was expressed here today at reports from Boston of the arrival there of Captain Walter G. Hinchcliffe, British aviator, as the latest information here is that he is in Amsterdam. Captain Hinchcliffe went to Amsterdam recently on private business and developed influenza, and so far as know here is still in Amsterdam.

W. J. BRYAN'S SON-IN-LAW, MAJ. REGINALD OWEN, DEAD

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Major Reginald Owen, son-in-law of William Jennings Bryan, and a veteran of the British army, died here from illness contracted during the Dardanelles campaign in the World War. He married Ruth Bryan, May 3, 1910. The couple both saw service in the World War, much of the time in Egypt, where Mrs. Owen was associated as a nurse with the Volunteer Aid Detachment..

U. S. FIELD GUNS LAND IN CHINA FOR 'WAR'

Hong Kong, Dec. 13 (I.N.S.).—A battle between government troops and Communists for possession of Canton opened in that city this afternoon with the former steadily gaining ground. Thousands have been slain in the two days of fighting.

Shanghai, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—The United States gunboat Sacramento has landed field guns at Canton to protect foreigners.

The guns were taken to the United States consulate in the Shameen concession district.

The American forces have also aided in evacuating foreigners from the Chinese section of the city, which is controlled by Communists who ousted the latest Canton dictator, General Chang Fak-Wei.

Armed launches from the United States gunboat Pampanga were sent to Tungshan, a suburb of Canton, to bring Americans there to safety.

A third United States gunboat, the Asheville, arrived at Canton from Hongkong.

Communists outbreaks were reported from various ports along the Yangtze river, including Wuchang and Changsha. The Chinese authorities are suppressing these rigorously.

Refugees from Canton report wholesale looting by the Communists.

Firing took place all night long at Canton and many buildings there were in flames, said a dispatch from Hongkong, adding that General Li Chi-Sum, former commander of the city, issued a proclamation that if the Communists did not surrender he would destroy the city.

A Japanese steamer which arrived at Canton with 1,500 Communists aboard and moored off Honam Spit reported that foreign gunboats, including the French, British and American, had threatened to sink her if any of the reds were landed.

Eighty-one foreigners, including 15 Americans, have been removed to Shameen, the foreign settlement of Canton, from districts outside of the foreign quarter. Eleven of those rescued were British and 55 German. They were rescued by British and American warships and Standard Oil Company launches.

While British Vice-Consul Ball was proceeding on a warship to rescue foreigners threatened at Tungshan, the modern suburb of Canton, the ship was fired on heavily by Communists from the north bank of the river. There were no casualties, and the vice-consul's mission was successful.

Reliable reports from Canton say the Communists issued a proclamation in the name of the "Soviet of Hongkong," ordering the extermination of landlords, destruction of all title deeds and confiscation of all lands and houses.

Soviet Government Set Up in Canton

London, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—A Soviet Government has been established in Canton by the Communists who seized the city, press dispatches stated today. One of the most prominent Commissars is the leader of the Seamen's Union, who is bitterly hostile to Hong Kong, a Reuter's dispatch said. The former chief secretary of Michael Borodin, Russian adviser to the former Canton Nationalist Government, has been appointed Commissar for War.

Chinese Troops Mutiny, Burn and Loot City

Hankow, China, Dec. 13 (A.P.)—Serious mutiny is reported to have broken out in Laohokon in Northern Hupeh, about 200 miles northwest of Hankow.

The troops there were reported to be looting and burning the city, which is on the Han River.

LEAGUE 'LINING UP' ALL G. O. P. CANDIDATES

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Editor of Universal Service.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Advocates of American membership in the League of Nations and its private Court have started a new drive to line up all Republican candidates for the Presidency on this whole question.

A start has been made by the presentation at the White House of the petition signed by supporters of the league, calling upon the Administration to renew its effort to get the United States into the League Court.

Member nations of the league having refused to accept the reservations to the World Court protocol fixed by the Senate as conditions to ratification, propagandists for the league are trying to compel President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg to lay the question before the Senate at the coming session.

TO DEMAND ACTION.

If prompt action at the White House satisfactory to the petitioners is not forthcoming, all Republicans mentioned for the Presidential nomination of that party will be called upon to tell whether they are for or against the Coolidge policy toward the league and the court.

Those Republicans who support President Coolidge's refusal to plunge the League and Court question into the present session of the Congress will be told that they can expect no support for their Presidential aspirants from the large organization of League supporters which has launched the new drive.

Considerable surprise has been expressed in official circles here hat the brother of one of President Coolidge's Cabinet officers—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University—should be taking such a prominent part in a movement whose main purpose is to embarrass the Administration.

WON'T SPEAK FOR KIN.

It was denied of course, at the Navy Department that Dr. Wilbur has any authority to speak for his brother, Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, on this question.

If Secretary Wilbur is in favor of returning the League Court protocol to the Senate with a request for elimination of the reservations to which the league objects, it was said today emphatically in an authoritative quarter that he is the only member of President Coolidge's Cabinet championing such a course.

CLEAR BORDEN OF CHARGES

A jury in Suffolk Superior Court vindicated Albert W. Borden, formerly of Wollaston but now of New York, for twelve years superintendent of the Baker Yacht Basin, Quincy.

Borden was cleared of charges of larceny, forgery, uttering and perjury made against him in connection with a note for $15,000, given him, he claimed, as part of back salary owed by the Baker Co. The company repudiated the note when presented for payment, according to the ex-superintendent.

It was alleged by Borden the charges were brought only after he had brought suit for $50,000 against the concern. William Scharton defended Borden.

Police Use Girl of 10 to Get Rum Evidence

In their determination to convict a Brighton street, West End, resident of selling liquor, it was testified in Judge James Parmenter's session of Municipal Court today that police of the Joy street station employed a ten-year-old girl to bargain for a pint with a marked $1 bill.

The result was that the offender, Harry Fox, Brighton street, convicted on the testimony of the child, was given a month in the House of Correction and was fined $50 for selling liquor to the girl and was given an additional two-month sentence along with a $50 fine for keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

In deference to the child, the Boston Evening American refrains from publishing her name. The prosecution was handled by Sergeant John J. Manning of Station No. 3 and Patrolman Henry A. Donovan of the same station. Fox appealed the sentence.

WANTS 'PAUPER' TAKEN FROM BAY STATE LAWS

Elimination of the word "pauper" from Massachusetts laws, which are a model for the world of social service, was strongly advocated by Richard K. Conant, State Commissioner of Public Welfare, speaking before the Massachusetts Civic League.

"Any law which tends to carry with it the stigma of pauperism makes people reluctant to accept aid badly needed," he said. "In the field of public welfare, there is no State which does so much as Massachusetts for its unfortunate people, for we spend $5,000,000 a year rendering some form of service to 70,000 persons."

GOVERNOR OF S. C. GETS FLAGS MAINE CAPTURED

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Five Confederate flags captured from South Carolina troops in 1863 have been received by Governor Richards from the State of Maine, where the banners have been kept 64 years as war trophies.

The flags, formally returned to South Carolina by Governor Brewster of Maine, at the Governors' conference in Michigan last Summer, were captured by the Ninth Maine Volunteers at Morris Island, July 11, 1863, from the Twenty-First South Carolina Volunteers.

ARRESTS MADE AT ELECTION IN CHELSEA

$2,000 bail each in Chelsea District Court for a hearing December 15. They pleaded not guilty.

Robert S. Connor of Chelsea, charged with trying to vote without being properly registered, was held in $500 bail for a hearing December 20. The man whom the election warden of Precinct 1, Ward 1, marched to headquarters, probably would be released without charges, police said, and they withheld his name.

The fight that happened to enmesh ex-Mayor Quigley in its midst occurred outside the Williams School voting place where Quigley was on hand early to watch the voting. It was following this melee that Abraham Cohen of Chestnut street, Chelsea, was arrested on the charge of assault and battery on Frank Maglione.

The fight started after former Mayor Quigley attempted to have Maglione arrested on a charge of illegal voting. The Williams School is the voting place for both precincts one and two of ward two.

Maglione went to the polling place of Precinct 1, but was told there his name was not on the list. He was followed by the former Mayor as he went to the Precinct 2 place, where he was told again that his name was not on the voting list.

Maglione's arrest was promptly demanded by ex-Mayor Quigley, but the police refused to take any action because Maglione had made no attempt to vote under someone else's name.

But a crowd of hangers-on gathered as he left the school and this precipitated a battle royal between a group of Quigley adherents and supporters of Mayor Whalen.

The former Mayor was in the midst of the melee, but apparently neither struck any blows nor was himself hit.

Several blows, however, narrowly missed him before the police rushed up and scattered the participants.

Feeling was at fever heat in the Chelsea electioneering, due to the vigorous effort of Quigley to regain the mayoralty from which he was ousted by Whalen, on a reform platform, at the last election. In the primaries, at which Quigley and Whalen were the only candidates, the former led.

More than 11,000 votes were expected to be cast. Police Chief Charles A. Finn, in ordering all reserves on duty, said that no effort would be spared to make the election peaceful.

"I have never seen such a bitter contest for Mayor," said Chief Finn. "I have made arrangements to use every policeman that can be spared from other duty, but I was not asked by either candidate to call in the State police and do not expect to have to seek such assistance." Mayor Whalen declared he would win by 500 votes, indicating the close contest that is certain.

Quigley voted in the Spencer avenue polling booth shortly before 7 o'clock. Mrs. Quigley was helping her husband get the voters to the polls. The closing hour is 4 o'clock and the result is expected to be known at 8 p. m.

By noon 1,050 of the 1,600 voters registered in Ward 3, Precinct 1 had cast their ballots and this was considered a sign that the total vote would exceed all expectations.

GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA IS IMPEACHED

Incompetency.

had been informed that the Senate would meet later and receive a committee from the House with the charges. Members of the Senate last night met in caucus and pledged full support of the House.

Chief Justice Fred T. Branson of the State Supreme Court and Charles B. Cordell, president of the State Board of Agriculture, were also impeached.

Justice Branson was charged with "corruption in office" and Cordell with alleged "poyroll padding."

MAY ASK U. S. AID.

It was hinted today that Governor Johnston would ask Federal intervention to balk his removal from office.

The Governor was impeached on six charges. These were:

Replacing civil authority with military authority.

Awarding a commission as peace officer to Jose Alvarado, alleged bank robber.

Employment of Kirby Fitzpatrick, attorney of Ardmore, as counsel for the State banking department.

Alleged illegal payment of $7,900 through a deficiency certificate on the banking department to employes charged by the House investigating committee to have been illegally placed on the payroll.

Alleged conspiracy between the Governor, his confidential secretary, Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, and an unnamed person, in connection with collection of a highway claim by a contractor.

The first secret session was held yesterday, but was adjourned when troops appeared.

WALTON PAYS A VISIT.

The Senate caucus, held at midnight, provoked no interference from the soldiery.

Ex-Governor J. C. Walton, also the victim of an impeachment, called upon Governor Johnston early today and chided the executive.

"Well, well, well," the former "Iron man" said, "you've not got a chance. I called out 300 guards to stop the Legislature and they impeached me."

Speaker Hill would not divulge the next prospective meeting place of the House. Meanwhile, the city and State were highly excited, for in Governor Walton's case, four years ago, many legal and military affairs occupied the attention of the various factions, the Legislature standing by until a later date, and finally being called by Governor Walton himself.

Woman's Strange Cult Causes Impeachment

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 13.—Although her name appears but once in the impeachment charges against Governor Henry S. Johnston, and then in connection with a contract, Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, his confidential secretary, is in reality the chief cause of the trouble.

Filling a position which is not authorized by law, Mrs. Hammonds, known as "Mrs. Col. House," is charged with actually holding the office of Governor, and "by an unexplainable control, performs its duties and exercises its powers."

Enemies of the small, attractive, serene-eyed woman declare her hold over Governor Johnston is due to his interest in Rosicurcianism, which perpetuates the knowledge of ancient occultism, as re-discovered and revamped in the 17th century.

APPEALS TO STARS.

Both the Governor and Mrs. Hammonds have denied membership in the Rosicrucian Fellowship, but there is evidence that would tend to offset their denials.

Mrs. Hammonds' uncle, James R. Armstrong, is a student of Yogi philosophy, and the Governor has admitted he himself thinks the beliefs of the Rosicrucian Fellowship "a powerful and persuasive presentation."

Furthermore, he has been reading Rosicurcian tracts, expounds the science of numbers and appeals to the stars fir guidance in official actions.

Whatever his real beliefs may be, the fact remains that Mrs. Hammonds dominates him and runs his office to suit herself. She is an attractive little woman, with a fair skin and dark hair and eyes with a faraway look in them, but withal she has a decided manner of speech.

SHE BECAME "BOSS."

When Governor Johnston took the oath of office last January he moved into a hotel apartment with his wife and their four adopted children. Mrs. Hammonds and her husband, now State health commissioner, took an adjoining apartment. It soon became apparent that the only road to Governor Johnston lay through his "confidential secretary." Mrs. Hammonds made all appointments for the Governor, attended to his affairs, determined who should see him, and also, it is said, encroached on the responsibilities of Mrs. Johnston.

"You cannot see the Governor. He is resting now," was the stock refusal of Mrs. Hammonds, and, according to members of the hostile Legislature, it still is. Dr. and Mrs. Hammonds and Governor and Mrs. Johnston now live in a private house, the former couple downstairs and the latter above.

Certain politicians found that it was as easy for them to see the Governor as for the proverbial camel to pass through the eye of a needle, and they made outcry about it.

Tom Kight of Claremore, who with E. P. Hill of McAlester led the fight to oust the Governor, issued a statement in which he charged Mrs. Hammonds was actually Governor and running the office.

The charge had frequently been made previously that the little secretary was the "boss" of the Governor. Kight was formerly associated with Mrs. Hammonds in the organization of a Ku Klux Klan auxiliary for women. The charges of occultism have been denied indignantly by both Mrs. Hammonds and the Governor.

The fact remains that she runs the office, and does it in a manner which, while distatsteful to the politicians, is nevertheless efficient from her own standpoint.

COOLIDGE FOR SENATOR, NOW THE GOSSIP

The name of President Coolidge as a candidate for the United States Senate was whispered about the State House today. At the same time a statement from Governor Fuller made it appear he may change his mind and consent to run for the Republican nomination.

The Governor told newspapermen that he had been asked not to repeat the statement that he would not be a candidate and had promised.

Projecting of President Coolidge's name as a possible candidate aroused excitement on Beacon Hill, but whether or not he would listen to the proposition at all could only be conjectured.

ADAMS SERVED.

As precedents, however, it was pointed out that another Massachusetts President, John Quincy Adams, after serving one term, was elected to Congress and held office until his death, 17 years afterwards.

President Andrew Johnson was elected senator after he had finished out the unexpired second term of Lincoln.

The Governor today was reluctant to talk about the situation. He was interviewed after Thomas W. White, local internal revenue collector and close friend of the President, had been talking with the Chief Executive.

Mr. White refused to comment on his visit to the executive chamber and the Governor was equally reticent.

To newspapermen the Governor declared that there has been a "perfect deluge of people" asking him to promise "not to say again that he would not be a candidate for the nomination for Senator." He stated that he had told these people he would not repeat the statement and refused to discuss the matter any further.

The Coolidge boom for the senatorial nomination was mentioned to the Governor by his secretary, Herman A. MacDonald, but the Governor's only reaction was a raising of the eyebrows and an outspreading of his hands.

LETTER TO FULLER.

President Robert M. Washburn of the Roosevelt Club, in answer to whose letter ex-Senator William M. Butler replied that he would not run, sent a similar letter today to Governor Fuller relative to the Senatorial problem.

Washburn said he intends sending letters of the same import to ex-Governor Channing H. Cox, former Speaker of the House B. Loring Young, Congressmen A. Piatt Andrew, George R. Stobbs, Sharles L. Underhill and Edith Nourse Rogers, and ex-Congressman Samuel W. Winslow.

PRESBYTERIAN DAY CONFERENC6 IN HUB

The annual conference of Greater Presbyterian Day was held at the United Presbyterian Church, Warren avenue and West Brookline street, today.

Among the prominent men who addressed the gathering were: Dr. Robert E. Spear, moderator for the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of America; Rev. M. G. Kyle, D. D. LL. D., moderator of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of the United States; Dr. A. Z. Conrad of Park Street Church and President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University.

3 HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN GAS BOMB ATTACK

Robert and Sadie Polite and George Brooks who figured in the police shotgun, gas bomb and revolver attack on a Wellington street tenement some days ago, had their cases sent along to the Grand Jury from Municipal Court today while Miss Lillian Coyne, charged with being an idle and disorderly person, will have her case disposed of in the lower court.

B. & M. BUS IN CRASH IS SAVED BY FENCE RAIL

Biddeford, Me., Dec. 13 (A.P.).—A Portland-bound Boston & Maine motor bus, carrying 13 passengers, crashed into a fence at "Death Under-Pass," two miles from this city, today. A fence rail prevented the bus from rolling into a deep ditch at the roadside. Passengers and driver escaped injury.

REVEAL ATTACK ON WOMAN LEFT TO DIE

That Mrs. Leah Hedtler, 39, of St. Botolph street, Back Bay, was a victim of an attack, lacked most of her clothing and had a badly discolored eye when dropped at the Massachusetts General Hospital to die by four youths, was revealed today through reliable information, as a Malden police trial board prepared to hear Patrolman H. A. Storey tonight defend himself against charges of neglect of duty in connection with an affair at the Old Lincoln Junior High School, where Mrs. Hedtler was first found.

The board is to determine whether the woman was attacked or fell, and is to pry into the story of her presence there and Officer Storey's status in regard to it.

Atty. George Demeter, counsel for the woman's daughter, Gertrude, declined to discuss the case today. Gertrude retained counsel when she demanded a thorough investigation into the death of her mother.

"It is a case worthy of the most thorough investigation," he said.

"I am making all inquiries possible and examining witnesses and would rather not discuss the case at this time."

Demeter and Miss Gertrude are to confer with District Attorney Bushnell tomorrow to learn the possibilities of criminal action in Middlesex court.

CONSUL ELIAS, MEXICO, MUST TESTIFY

revealed by the Hearst newspapers.

All the powers of the Senate will be mustered if necessary to enforce by Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, sponsor of the resolution this decision, reached at a secret meeting of the committee, headed of inquiry.

Any doubt in the minds of the members of the committee as to the power of the Senate to compel the attendance and elicit the testimony of Elias was cleared up by an informal opinion from the State Department. It held that the Senate was clearly within its rights to subpoena Elias and force him to testify

RETURN IS MADE.

The subpoena for Elias was issued last Friday within an hour after the Senate unanimously ordered the investigation into the grave charges. It has been served on the Mexican Consul-General, who is a half-brother of President Calles, and Sergeant-at-Arms David S. Barry has made a return to the committee.

The committee is prepared for a show-down in the event of any resistance on the part of Elias or intervention by the Mexican Embassy. It was intimated that if necessary an actual arrest would be made and contempt proceedings instituted if Elias was steadfast in his refusal to testify.

Inasmuch as no treaty of amity and commerce has been exchanged between the United States and Mexico, members of the committee assert that Elias is not entitled to diplomatic immunity, but is amenable to court process and the authority of the Senate just as much as any American citizen, or foreigner who has violated the law of the United States.

Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican Ambassador, who declared that Elias would stand on his rights of immunity under international law and "established custom" in such matters, is understood to have made representations to the State Department in an effort to enlist its aid in preventing Elias from taking the witness stand at the first open hearing Thursday.

In view of the gravity of the offense of influencing the official action of the four senators, whose names have not been revealed, which the documents show was contemplated, the Senate is in no mood for quibbling over diplomatic niceties, and apparently the State Department is ready to back it up.

Should evidence before the committee indicate that Elias had been meddling in American affairs, or is guilty of a part in the projected plot, it was intimated that the State Department will declare him persona non grata and ask the Mexican Government to recall him. The department, of course, will await convincing evidence before taking that drastic action.

STANDS ITS GROUND.

The committee meeting was called hastily by Senator Reed when the representations of the Mexican Embassy were brought to his attention. It was suggested in some quarters that the subpoena be withdrawn and an "invitation" extended to Elias to appear, so that Mexican pride would not be ruffled.

After an hour's session behind closed doors, the committee voted to stand its ground and insist that the summons be obeyed. Moreover, the committee is determined that Elias produce the books and papers bearing on his correspondence with President Calles, as revealed in the documents published by the Hearst newspapers.

There is no disposition on the part of any Senators to believe that any of the two sets of Senators linked in the rumor and gossip that is rife in the chamber actually accepted a dollar of the $1,215,000 which President Calles proposed to furnish his half-brother from the Mexican Treasury to promote propaganda in the United States.

MEXICAN ARMY KILLS 96 IN TWO BATTLES

Mexico City, Dec. 13 (A.P.)—Ninety-six Catholic rebels were killed in two battles in the State of Jalisco last week, according to despatches from Guadalajara. Jose Cabrales, a priest, was among the victims.

Seventy-three Catholics were killed in a battle between 600 rebels and a regiment of federal troops and 23 died in a conflict of 300 rebels and the 51st Federal Regiment.

MOTHER OF MRS. COOLIDGE IN FAVORABLE CONDITION

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 13 (A P.)—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, seventy-eight-year-old mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who is in Dickinson Hospital suffering from influenza, did not have "quite so comfortable a night" as on Saturday night, it was stated by the superintendent of the hospital this morning.

However, it was added, her temperature remains normal, and her condition is regarded as favorable by her physician, Dr. Elmer H Copeland. The White House is keeping in touch with Mrs. Goodhue's condition by telephone calls twice daily.

IT'S FAME VERSUS LOVE

"What am I to do," mourns Jean Audree, a former Brookline girl and one of Ziegfeld's most glorified girls. Moe Solinsky, millionaire New York merchant, doesn't want his fiancee on the stage after her marriage and Jean doesn't want to walk out on Ziegfeld and give up her career. Her real name is Audree Jean Austin and she is the daughter of C. Bernard Austin, former Boston sports writer.

MUCH BETTING ON ELECTION IN WOBURN

Woburn was experiencing political excitement with plenty of betting today on the outcome of the race between Mayor Thomas H. Duffy, Democrat, and ex-Mayor Harold P Johnson, Republican. Mayor Duffy seeks his fourth successive term. Johnson was Mayor in 1915 and 1916.

Hundreds of automobiles were being used by both factions to get voters to the polls and politicians termed it "the biggest election in years."

A political flurry was caused in Everett by a letter written to voters at the eleventh hour by President Frank M. Holmes of the Everett Trust Company, endorsing the candidacy of James Roche who opposed Dr. Lester C. Chisholm, five times Mayor of that city.

Holmes said the bank might lose the city's business if Roche was defeated, but he was "willing to pay that price" for good citizenship.

Governor Fuller and Mrs. Fuller were to vote in the Malden election where Mayor John D. Devir was running for his fourth term, opposed by Alderman Artemus B. Sweezey, whom he has already defeated twice.

Lawrence was another scene of considerable betting, so much so that City Marshal Timothy J. O'Brien called out additional patrolmen and reserve officers to prevent irregularities and disturbances.

Betting chiefly was on the contest between Mayor Walter T. Rochefort, running for his third term, and Dr. Michael A. Landers, who led the incumbent by a wide margin at the primaries. Mayor Rochefort defeated Dr. Landers two years ago at the last election.

Attorney Mary P. McCarthy was looked upon as the probable leader of a field of four running for two school committee posts, the others being Committeeman Thomas M. Howard, Dr. Alfred J. Leary and Dr. Arthur A. Peront. Voting was heavy in the early hours.

One of the close contests was between John W. McCarthy and Patrick F. McNulty for director of engineering, McNulty seeking his fourth term in that office.

The sounding of 20 bells on the fire alarm systems called Newton voters to the polls at 7.30. Mayor Edwin O. Childs, who has held office continuously since 1914, was confident of victory over Walter H. Hogdon of Newton Upper Falls. As fire alarms are now silent in Newton, the electrical apparatus had to be rigged up anew to sound the election summons.

MAYOR WON'T VIEW BLACK BOOK WITH FIN. COM.

The "little blackbook" of pungent memoranda which Professor Cummings of Harvard submitted to the Finance Commission with his formal report on the School Committee is not likely ever to become public. Mayor Nichols wishes it to—that is, if it is to be used at all. The Fin. Com. wishes to go over it with the Mayor in private.

That he has no intention of doing the latter, the Mayor made plain today and he also passed along to the commission the advice that a start be made on investigation of the School Committee's budget system, which he believes is the most

REMUS SHAKES HIS FIST AT PROSECUTOR

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 13 (I.N.S.)—Shaking his fist in the faces of the prosecutors, George Remus rose in court at his trial for murder today and, pleading in behalf of two indicted defense witnesses, urged the court to see to it that the jury is given the full facts on "how the state is besmirching the ends of justice by using the grand jury as a weapon against a man on trial for his life."

On each side of Remus stood the indicted men, John S. Berger, wealthy exposition promoter of Los Angeles, and Vernon R. Chambley, Remus' jail secretary.

While they were being arraigned, the jury was absent.

TIFFANY SIGNS MORE STARS AS HEADLINERS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Dec. 13.—Raymond Schrock, former manager of production for Warner Brothers, former boss of Universal City, and a pioneer scenario writer, steps into the whirlwind of Tiffany's renewed activity as general supervisor well equipped for the battle.

Considering the retrenchment policy planned by some of the large producing companies, Tiffany-Stahl's splash in the film puddle is food for thought. What does it mean? There isn't a star or a director that Tiffany isn't reaching out to get, providing the record of achievement is sufficiently strong to warrant negotiations. Eve Southern was signed Saturday.

Producers are human enough to like to be able to say, "I was right." That's why Jack Warner chuckled with glee when he re-signed Leila Hyams on a new five-year contract and the same day signed Myrna Loy for another team of years. Both girls made their debut on the Warner lot and both were given their chances in the movies by this same Jack Warner. Miss Hyams has been loaned to the Fox Company to play an important part in "The Red Dancer of Moscow," and Miss Loy is also with the Fox Company for the time being.

The Galapagos exploration expedition, being sent to the South Sea groups and other islands of the Pacific for eight months, will have Dr. George Miske Sutton and Dr. Donald Teed in the party.

Maybe you've never heard of these names. I admit my ignorance and will have to say I did not know that Dr. Sutton is a world famous bird curator from the Cleveland Museum of Natural History and Dr. Teed hails from the Michigan Museum of Natural History. Both men have been given permission to accompany the movie party. Dr. Teed is to collect antediluvians (get your dictionary).

That prolific youngster, John Farrow, at the moment is assisting F. H. Herrick in writing these South Sea tales. While a native cast will probably be assembled, we can depend upon a white leading lady and man. At least, so William Sistrom, in charge of this company, has told his friends.

"Lady Raffles," the feminine gender of Raffles, the charming, debonnaire thief, who was so popular with theatre-goers some seasons ago, is about to make her debut in the movies. Harry Cohn is to introduce the lady to the picture-going public in a drama to be directed by Roy Neill. As yet, Mr. Cohn hasn't signed anyone for the part, although he knows whom he wants—and if he can persuade the certain actress that this is a good role he may get her.

FORMER KAISER TO HAVE THEATRE OF HIS OWN

Doorn, Holland, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—The former Kaiser is going into theatrical production. He intends to run his own private theatre now being built within the grounds at Doorn House, his residence.

The idea originated with his wife, Princess Hermine, who has long been dissatisfied with the dullness of Dutch village life and the lack of entertainment there in the evening for invited guests who are becoming more numerous. Performances by companies from the leading German theatres, especially Max Reinhardt's, are being arranged.

BAUER PRAISES DOGS, SLAPS CLERGY

Mayor Ralph S. Bauer of Lynn today issued a proclamation to the dogs of his city, declaring there is a desire on the part of persons in authority to murder them, but assuring the canines of his friendship and protection.

He also issued a challenge to Rev. John Scott, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Lynn, to play bridge for a prize, on condition the contestants submit to arrest, and for a third official act banned midnight parties and theatrical shows over the New Year's holiday period.

In his proclamation, probably the first of its kind ever issued, the Mayor said there appears to be a desire in the hearts of men associated with the animal industry department at the State House to murder dogs. He assured dogs that they have his high regard and respect, and the more he sees of men the more he respects their four-footed companions.

Dogs were complimented for their law-abiding spirit by the Mayor, who said he never knew of dogs going on record to modify or abolish the 18th amendment, although some ministers' associations have done so. Mayor Bauer also took a fling at clergymen who condone the giving of prizes at card games.

He urged all dog owners to have their animals licensed at once, and stated that in Lynn dogs may have the full run of the streets, sidewalks and open spaces if they do not make a nuisance of themselves as some citizens and political candidates do. He concluded by wishing all dogs a doggone good time, a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

While the Boston City Council voted to put into effect two days ahead of time the State Health Department request that all dogs be leashed for a period of 90 days, the Brockton aldermen, in a surprise move, sounded a call to arms for these opposed to such restraint.

A measure to comply with the request by proper local supporting action was laid on the table and two aldermen were appointed as a committee to try to get the Health Commissioner to exempt Brockton.

TWO SENTENCED FOR $3,900 STORE THEFT

Leon O'Elbard of Boylston street, Back Bay, and Mrs. Rachel Murphy of Newton, in Municipal Court today were convicted of larceny of $3,900 from a downtown department store where they were employed. O'Elbard was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction and appealed, while Mrs. Murphy was given a suspended sentence to Sherborn and placed on probation.

Just Three More Days for Gift Suggestions

Only three days left.

Thursday, December 15, is the last day on which the President's Gift Editor can receive suggestions for a Christmas present for President Calvin Coolidge. So hurry, you suggesters.

The gift must be something made in New England, costing $50. Today's ideas include an oil painting of Charles A. Lindbergh, suggested by Maud E. Caren of No. 4 Atlas avenue, East Saugus. Mrs. J. H. Anderson, No. 83 Emerson street, South Boston, suggests an American flag bearing on its bars words used by the President in an address: "Wars will end when the people want them to end."

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY EVENTS

First of Senior Supper Dances to Be Held Friday Night and Record Throng Seems Assured

WHAT WOULD A BOSTON SEASON BE WITHOUT THE Senior Supper Dances? It would indeed be bereft of much swank and smartness. For whatever else the season has to offer of debutantish delights and philanthropical pyrotechnics—after all's said and done—'tis the Senior Set and its swagger dances which give great eclat to the Winter. Very smart are these affairs. Very exclusive and very recherche. To be on the Senior List is like to being on the Assembly List, it gives one the desired social cachet.

RONALD T. LYMAN IS THE HIGH AND MIGHTY POTENTATE of the Senior Supper Dances, the first of which gleams on the calendar for next Friday and interests the whole Senior Set. Judging by the reservations for supper parties, the first dance will be a record breaker. Smart hosts and smart hostesses are bringing large groups, and one of the very largest will be that of Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, who corrals two dozen for her tables. The Francis Henry Appletons, Jr., have a group of fourteen, and Mrs. Frederic M. Burnham, sixteen.

DR. AND MRS. J. LEWIS BREMER ARE ENTERTAINING A round dozen of guests. The Alexander Wheelers are hosts to ten. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prince Beal bring on a half dozen, and Sidney Fairbanks entertains for nine. Other names familiar in the Seniors' list among those entertaining on Friday are Mrs John Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mixter, Mr. and Mrs Robert Treat Paine Storer, Edward L. Rantoul, Mr. and Mrs. William Sellers Febiger and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Rogers.

LARGE PARTIES ARE THE RULE THROUGHOUT—THE MIXTERS entertaining for eighteen, the Febigers for ten, Mr. Rantoul for twelve, Dr. and Mrs. Bryant for sixteen and the Storers for twelve. Mr. and Mrs. Robert C Cobb of "Old Pickard Farm" come to town for the event and play hosts to fourteen people. The William P. Blodget party numbers ten. Miss Harriet Royce, a handsome girl of the Younger Set, having affiliations also with the Senior Dance crowd, is bringing sixteen guests on Friday.

MADAME COBINA WRIGHT

Songstress delights society and the arts by her brief Boston appearance. She sings this evening both at the Republican Club and at the Governor's mansion.

WHATEVER ITS REWARDS IN GLORY, BEING A SONGSTRESS with delicate vocal chords to guard zealously has its drawbacks. Madame Cobina Wright finds this so, since she has heaps of Boston friends eager to entertain her with no moments to spare for frivolities in her two days' stay. However, a luncheon at the Ritz yesterday, with Mrs. Alvan Tufts Fuller as hostess, did claim Madame Wright, immediately after she had been officially welcomed to the State by His Excellency the Governor.

FOR THE LUNCHEON WITH THE FIRST LADY, MADAME Wright was charming. She shed a magnificent sable wrap to disclose a smart daytime frock of black velvet. Pearls in double strands were about her throat and a silver ornament gave accent to the dense black snug chapeau. The Fashionables are having a double opportunity to hear Madame Wright. This evening she sings in the handsome ballroom at the Republican Club, and later goes over to the Governor's Mansion to sing again, this time to the Governor General of Canada and the Viscountess Willingdon, the exalted personages now in our midst and being thoroughly lionized.

THEY ARE VERY ATTRACTIVE AND GENIAL LIONS, His Excellency and the Viscountess. They proved so yesterday when smart society thronged into the Ritz to shake them by the hand and then sip a cup of tea in their honor. A vivaciously attractive matron, the Viscountess. Yesterday she was wearing an ensemble of taupe, for the receiving line. Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, doing the honors for the English Speaking Union, was in black. In the crush of notables I saw Mrs. Allan Forbes, handsome and distinguished in golden brown, with a fisher scarf about her throat.

Reception and Tea Tendered Governor General of Canada and Viscountess Willingdon at the Ritz

MISS ALICE STACKPOLE WORE A STRIKING CREATION of taupe velvet. Mrs. James A. Parker in black was as girlishly attractive as was her elder daughter, Miss Virginia Parker. Mrs. John F. Hill of Augusta, Me., and Boston, was smart in soft smoke gray. Mrs. Richard Middlecott Saltonstall, who entertains the Governor General and the Viscountess today at a small tea in Chestnut Hill, was handsomely gowned in mauve velvet. Mrs. Alexander Whiteside's frock was done in metal cloth and velvet and a magnificent fox scarf was about her shoulders.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT TREAT PAINE CAME TO GREET the exalted visitors and to renew friendships made at St. Andrew's in Canada, where they all foregather of a Summer. Mrs. Paine's costume was smart in the extreme, with a dash of gold in her scarf. Mrs. John C. Gray wore an embroidered wrap over a velvet gown. Mrs. George Selfridge was in black; Mrs. Robert Farley Clark in black and silver; Mrs. Frederick S. Mead in wood brown satin. Of course, British Consul General Edward Gray was in attendance, officially, and his ever so charming wife and daughter also.

MRS. WALTER M. PRATT'S VERY HANDSOME COSTUME was of black, the frock of velvet and the wide chapeau also of velvet with a dash of rose across the crown. Mrs. Edward F. Gray was in a smart little frock that shaded from pale to deep rose-orchid and her daughter, Miss Helga Gray, was in blue. Miss Gray served behind one of the gleaming urns in the tea room, and so likewise did Mrs. George Saltonstall West, petite and attractive in black sprigged with blue and a fox scarf swung at a jaunty angle.

AFFAIRS FOR THE GOVERNOR GENERAL AND THE VISCOUNTESS rise crescendo-like in brilliance. Today was added a luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Wadsworth as hosts at their Marlboro street home and the guests a potpourri of officialdom and society. General Clarence Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, Lord Hardinge, Mrs. Charles E. Cotting, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Whiteside, Mr. and Mrs. William Butler and last, but by no means least, William Phillips, American Minister to Canada, and Mrs. Phillips.

SINCE GUY WARREN WALKER, JR., ESSAYS THE MALE lead in some amateur dramatics it is quite in keeping that Mrs. Louis Sturgis Vose of Charles River square entertains a party at dinner and then takes her guests on to the show. For Mr. Walker is the fiance of the charming daughter of the house, Miss Nancy Sturgis Vose. The dramatics are being done by the Auburndale Amateurs, tomorrow evening. Leighton Rollins is one of the Vose group both for dinner and the play.

RESERVE CAVALRY OFFICER STARTS 3,700-MILE RIDE

New York, Dec. 12 (A.P.)—Mounted on a five-year-old Morgan thoroughbred horse, Lieutenant Paul C. Linehard, an army reserve cavalry officer, started today on an overland ride of 3,700 miles to Los Angeles, a feat declared never before to have been accomplished with a single horse. Lieutenant Linehard plans to make the trip in 84 riding days, averaging 44 miles a day.

LEAVES $200,000 TO MAN WHO MADE IT OUT OF $100

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13 (A.P.)—An estate of $200,000 pyramided from $100 has been bequeathed to Fred B. Miller "to do as he darn well pleases with it."

His benefactor is James Hardiman, a barber, for whom Miller invested $100 in realty 20 years ago.

CELTIC IN GALE; 12 INJURED

New York, Dec. 13 (A.P.)—A terrific gale at sea that caused several hours' delay in arriving of nine transatlantic liners here and abroad, damaged one and caused injury to 12 passengers on another.

The White Star liner Celtic, New York to Liverpool, arrived at Cobh after a gale in which 12 passengers were hurt.

'WILDEST' ROW IN SENATE

Washington, Dec. 13.—The wildest row in years developed in the Senate today when Democratic leaders launched an attack on the Insurgent-Republican peace treaty.

The Republican leaders were accused of "buying off" the insurgents through choice committee assignments. The insurgents then challenged the Democrats to produce a legislative program acceptable to the agricultural west.

'COBRA' SCORES AT ST. JAMES

"Cobra," the sensational four act drama which played a considerable length of time at a downtown theatre two seasons ago, was presented by the St. James stock company last evening.

Clara Joel, new leading lady, [illegible] the role of Elise Van Zile, the "cobra," in a manner which brought forth rounds of applause at the final curtain. As Jack Race, who was torn between friendship on one hand and passion on the other, Walter Gilbert proved equal to the occasion and came out on top.

Day Mason, the St. James juvenile who is growing in popularity every week, was particularly well suited to the role of Tony Dorning, the young husband whose [illegible] were torn to shreds and cast to the four winds. Edith Speare undertook the part of Judith Drake, a pretty and [illegible] stenographer, with much success.

Although appearing in only one act, [illegible] as Sophie [illegible] deserves a great deal [illegible] John Winthrop [illegible] the role of [illegible] down bankrupt, in his [illegible] capable manner.

'GHOST TRAIN' BIG HIT AT COPLEY

"The Ghost Train" is running again.

With shrieking flanges, whistle valve open, bell [illegible] clapping, and brakes grinding [illegible] past the [illegible] station just off [illegible]

Apparently, Mr. Clive's [illegible] mystery shocker of last season has yet a long way to go.

A crowd [illegible] fairly hogged [illegible] turned out last evening.

Some were there for the second and third time. [illegible] had heard [illegible] came to see the phantom [illegible] flashes past [illegible] nerved noise and red smears of light.

Mr. Clive was again the blundering and amusing [illegible] person whose mock heroism is the hit of the show.

[illegible] Dudgeon, as the raucous [illegible] spinster, clawed her way through the [illegible] of cockney [illegible] and got drunk in the nick of time.

Another whose talents are essential to the success of "The Ghost Train" was Margaret Muller as the [illegible] girl crook.

This [illegible] mystery "opry" [illegible] When it was [illegible] last season it seemed to have [illegible] the natural death of a long and [illegible] But like the [illegible] is as lively as ever.

ETHEL LEGINSKA LEADS WOMEN'S SYMPHONY

Ethel Leginska returned to Boston to lead the Boston Women's Symphony Orchestra in its first concert of the season at Jordan Hall. Drawn [illegible] from the ranks of amateur [illegible] the band mustered close to sixty players on the stage, playing a typical symphonic program.

Delius' piano concerto in C minor was the novelty of the program, and Reginald [illegible], [illegible] pianist, was the soloist in the first Boston performance. He was generously applauded by a large audience.

The purely orchestral numbers included Weber's overture to "Oberon," Beethoven's fifth symphony and Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker" suite. In the last the orchestra was heard [illegible] playing with [illegible]

STAGE TRIUMPH IS PORTRAYED

Stage life with all its glamour is revealed in "The Spotlight" at the Keith-Albee Boston. It is a fascinating story and certainly Esther Ralston is a winsome star.

She is the timid girl trying to be friendly with an unfriendly world. Then she blossoms forth as a dazzling creature with a foreign accent and clothing that Cleopatra would envy.

It is hard to tell whether this blonde girl who rises to new [illegible] heights in "The Spotlight" is more attractive as her [illegible] or as the brunette she is transformed to during the picture.

Boston Managers Willing to Trade | Want Real Value Big Hockey Clash

By NICK FLATLEY

CARRIGAN AND SLATTERY READY TO DO BUSINESS

BOSTON baseball fans, always keen observers of what goes on during the Winter months, are especially interested in the large league meetings which start today in New York. Boston has two managers over there, looking for talent and both occupy somewhat unusual positions.

Bill Carrigan, with a year of baseball under his belt, is all ready to do a lot of David Harum stuff. Bill used to be baseball's greatest trader in the old days. He could swap an old glove for a new uniform and consistently outslicked the slickers.

Nick Flatley

Bill, absent from the game for ten years, didn't do much player shuffling last season. He was getting his eye on the ball, so to speak. He is set to cut loose now, though Bill never did care what athletes he tossed around provided he could collect something to help his own team.

Mister Carrigan was not satisfied with the Red Sox last Summer. He decided to find a new team for himself this year. That was made evident last week, when ten of the young men who had Sox contracts last year were tossed out into the cool Winter breezes. Bill has a few athletes the other clubs want and he may be the big trader of the meetings.

Jack Slattery, new manager of the Braves, is attending his first confab of pilots in an official capacity. But he isn't a stranger to the lobby huddles, where more corns and callouses are generated in a week than in any other known spot. Jack, as a scout, has been drifting to baseball gatherings for years.

He has been in touch with the large league clubs, looking over their young players and talking business with them about some of the boys who represented him at Boston College. He goes in with much more exact knowledge of his league than most budding managers.

The Braves have players that other clubs want. They might have picked Cuyler from Pittsburgh had they been willing to let Eddie Farrell, young infielder, go to the Pirates. They can trade Hogan or Greenfield or Bob Smith or Jimmy Welsh very easily. But they will not do that. No young player will go. Half a dozen veterans are on the block, however, and it's almost certain that two or three will be disposed of this week.

If any of the boys go, something in player value and not money, will come in return. Strength means more than money to both Boston teams just now. Which is as it should be.

FRANK GOODWIN COULD GIVE THE BOYS IN NEW YORK SOME IDEAS ON THE HIT AND RUN BUSINESS.

From all the squabbling, one would think that the baseball draft had something to do with the Eighteenth Amendment.

ICE BATTLE THIS EVENING WILL PACK ARENA

THERE will be real war at the Arena tonight when the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers start swinging their curved sticks. This setto will be a real large league affair. The clubs are great rivals, anyhow; two of the best teams in the business, and the league lead goes with victory.

The Bruins are on top of the heap now, but they have a mere one-point margin on the Rangers. The battle will be for blood and there will be very little idle space around the ice, as Boston is properly steamed up about its hockey team. The clubs met once before this year, in New York, and a wild skirmish ended in a 1-1 tie.

The Bruins are a tough team to beat. They have class and fighting spirit. They have built up a reserve strength that enables them to keep going at top speed from appetizer to cordial. The tougher they come, the better the native boys like it. And they don't come any tougher than the Rangers.

GAINOR IS THE RIGHT NAME FOR A STAR PLAYER ON A CLIMBING TEAM.

This Plan Might Be Tried Out in Hub Rings

Detroit, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Something novel in the way of providing inducements for highly paid boxers to put forth their best efforts during bouts here, has been worked out by C. M. Hall, a member of the boxing commission.

The plan consists of stimulating action by fining the fighters so much per round for each session in which Hall believes they have stalled, and in announcing his levy to the cash customers via the megaphone. At a recent bout between Jenny Bass, featherweight championship [illegible], and Johnny Farr here [illegible]

The boys started off at a fast clip, but slowed down to a walk in the sixth round, at the conclusion of which Hall boomed forth:

"Bass is fined $250 for dogging it!"

Phil Glassman, manager of Bass, objected strenuously.

"Two hundred and fifty dollar fine for Glassman."

No more objections from Glassman. The fighters banged away at each other with zest for three rounds and then Farr started hanging on.

"Two hundred and fifty dollar fine for Farr for hanging on!" Hall announced.

There was no more stalling.

Woburn Vets Plan Big Boxing Night

The amateur boxing tournament to be held Thursday evening at Lyceum Hall, Woburn, under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, promises to be the largest of its kind ever staged in that city.

Competition will be held in the following four open classes, 112, 126, 147 and 160 pounds and the 133 pound novice class. Entries have been pouring into Martin Kelley, chairman in charge, and include some of the best boys in and around this section.

Sharkey to Go Through With Heeney Bout

WILL THEN MEET GENE FOR TITLE

No Truth in Rumor Sharkey Trying to Dodge Heeney; No Title Fight for Hub

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight contender, will battle Gene Tunney for the world's championship next year if he is successful in defeating Tom Heeney of New Zealand in a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden on January 13.

Jack Dempsey has notified Tex Rickard that he will never fight again. Rickard is delaying making public Dempsey's decision in the hope that the Tiger will change his mind.

There is not any truth to the report that Sharkey will attempt to avoid going through with his contest with Heeney on January 13 and refuse to fight until he tackles Tunney.

The Boston heavyweight is still suffering some pain from his left [illegible] he injured last month [illegible] believes the injured mitt will [illegible] condition for the Heeney contest on January 13.

Sharkey today started training for the Heeney match by taking a [illegible] around the Chestnut Hill Reservoir. He will continue his road work each day from now on, while he will open fire at [illegible] Gym, beginning next Monday afternoon.

NO BOXING FOR JACK.

Sharkey will not do any boxing with his sparring partners until the latter part of the month, as he expects to give his left hand as much rest as possible.

Jack will work with his sparring mates for [illegible] twelve days before [illegible] in the tussle which will have such an important bearing on his future career.

There was a report sent out from New York today to the effect that when Tunney and Sharkey box the contest will be staged in Boston. This is unlikely on account of the limited seating capacity at Braves Field, the largest available spot for such a bout.

Tunney's next defense of his title will probably take place in New York where the sky is now the limit on ticket charges. Under a recent Supreme Court decision in New York, the Boxing Commission no longer has the power to regulate the prices of tickets at boxing shows. Rickard told me recently that he was contemplating charging $100 a ticket for the first ten rows the next time Tunney battles.

DEMPSEY IS THROUGH.

Terrific punishment received in his two bouts with Tunney and his battle with Sharkey caused Dempsey to decide to quit the ring.

"I have a million dollars and can live in comfort for the rest of my life," Dempsey told Rickard before he left for the Coast a couple of weeks ago. "I am troubled with the sight of my left eye and if I remain in the fight racket I may be punched goofy. It is time for me to quit."

Rickard and Tunney are opposed to Dempsey quitting the ring. Tex knows that Jack would be a tremendous box office attraction for one more big shot, while Tunney would like to get the old champion in a 15-round bout in New York.

"Gene figures he would knock Dempsey out inside of 15 rounds," Jimmy Bronson, Tunney's chief second, told me recently. "I figure Dempsey would be a soft match for Tunney. Jack couldn't have gone another round at Chicago."

SHARKEY NEXT KING.

"Sharkey is the only dangerous heavyweight threat. I believe Sharkey will be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

"He has natural class and youth on his side. He will have only himself to blame if he fails to eventually dethrone Tunney."

Paolino, Spanish woodchopper, has delayed signing for a Boston bout for the Argonne A. A. in the hope that he would be named to take Sharkey's place against Heeney in the event the Boston heavyweight failed to go through with the New York bout on January 13. With Sharkey back training, Paolino is likely to agree to show here against Joe Monte or some other heavyweight of prominence.

Gene, in Chicago, Plays Role of Santa Claus

Chicago, Dec. 13 (I.N.S.)—Gene Tunney, essaying the role of "Santa Claus," will arrive in Chicago to contribute his bit to the success of the Christmas charity drive. In accepting the invitation several days ago the heavyweight champion replied that he owed Chicago "a debt of gratitude," which he was eager to pay.

This afternoon Tunney is scheduled to visit a war veterans' hospital, after which he will confer with Promoter Jim Mullen about a title-defense bout here next Summer. Mullen has papers drawn that he expects the champion to sign.

Loughran Decision Not Unanimous

New York, Dec. 13 (A.P.)—The decision by which Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia defeated Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo last night and won undisputed possession of the world's light heavyweight title was not unanimous. The State Athletic Commission, at its meeting today, disclosed that the referee [illegible] Magnolia, voted for a draw [illegible] the two judges, Tom [illegible] and Charles Mathison, decided in Loughran's favor at the end of the fifteen round match in Madison Square Garden.

Foreign Nations Show Dangerous Threat In Next Olympic Meet

This is the first of a series of articles on America's chances for victory in the Olympic games of 1928, with particular reference to the New England [illegible] who are likely to represent the United States.

By JOE CASHMAN.

WITH America's athletic supremacy threatened for the first time to any serious extent, followers of American sports whether they be track or field events, soccer, rowing, rifle shooting, tennis or what not, have turned their eyes towards the lists from which must be picked the men who will bear the brunt of the attack of the foreign nations at Amsterdam in the Olympic games next June, July and August and at St. Moritz, Switzerland, in February.

Of course every section of the nation will be represented in the small army of athletes that will compete with the shield of Stars and Stripes upon their [illegible]

The power of practically every nation in the world has increased athletically in the past four years. Each nation will cut into Uncle Sam's lead and gradually cut the old sentennial points to a mere fraction of the amount that won four years ago.

PASSING THE PUCK

By Bill Grimes

Hal Winkler is the man the Rangers must beat tonight to regain possession of first place in the American Division of the N. H. L. Winkler was with the New York aggregation last year and when the Bruins went looking for a new goal-minder, Lorne Chabot was given the preference over Winkler. Judging from the article of hockey Winkler has played, the New York management sold the Bruins a goalie who was mainly responsible for the Boston outfit reaching the Stanley Cup series.

The New York management [illegible] Chabot as a [illegible] Winkler [illegible] was [illegible]

[illegible] Manager Lester [illegible] was unable to determine who was the better of the two and, therefore during the stay of Winkler with the Rangers, he used Chabot and Hal alternately.

Naturally Winkler's pride was hurt when he was selected to join that Bruins and he has never missed a chance to show the New Yorkers that they pulled one of those things when they allowed him to get away. Winkler has turned in some fine games for the Bruins, but he fairly outshines himself when playing against the Rangers. A comparison of Winkler and Chabot in the Bruins-Ranger games, gives the Boston player an edge.

Manager Eddie Powers will take his Tigers down to Providence tomorrow night and wage battle against the Rhode Island Reds. Since the last meeting of these teams the Providence outfit has been strengthened by the acquisition of Jakie Forbes, the former New York American goal tender. Forbes is a great actor and his bag of tricks has made a tremendous hit with the Rhode Island fans.

QUINCY HIGH STAR TO ENTER A PREP SCHOOL

It was announced at Quincy High School that Fred Comperato, one of the star football players of the school team, is all through playing for Quincy High and will enter some prep school as soon as the basket ball season is ended.

He is captain of the basket ball team for 1928 and was a candidate for the captaincy of the football team of 1928, but was defeated for that office.

Comperato, a halfback, is one of the best football players ever seen at Quincy High.

Friends of Comperato say that as soon as he finishes at the prep school he will enter Notre Dame.

B. U. SEXTET AFTER CROWN

The hockey game with Harvard at the Boston Arena Friday night, is the most important athletic affair on the Boston University sport schedule for the year of 1927.

Any time a Boston University team takes the measure of a team from across the river it is an occasion for great celebration. In the past year Harvard won the baseball game and Boston University won the basketball game.

Harvard does not regard Boston University as a formidable opponent in any sport or hockey. As a result the game Friday night will mean considerable to the Terriers.

There are four teams in the way. They are Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Boston College. Harvard is generally the strongest team in the east and a victory over the Crimson means a strong start toward the coveted title.

Loughran Proves His Right to the Crown

New York, Dec. 13.—The local boxing commission guessed right for once when it nominated Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, light heavyweight champion.

Thomas proved himself the better man in the battle of the two champions in the Garden, winning a 15-round decision over Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, the N. B. A. candidate for the honors.

Although Buffalo's bad boy was defeated, he ran a mighty close second, and covered himself with glory for he was not expected to go the full route. This time he had not trained on Buffalo's main street. He was in the best condition and gave his backers a great run for the money.

The bout was the best exhibition of boxing between big men seen here since the famous McCoy-Corbett affair that closed the Horton Law regime. For ten rounds Slattery more than held his own, but he blew up after that and Loughran nosed him out.

The attendance was rather slim, only about 12,000 seeing the fight. The Garden would have been packed if boxing fans had known in advance what was coming off. Loughran won seven rounds and three were even.

Lowell Boy Carries Every Round But Second in Suffolk Feature

By JACK CONWAY

JOCK MALONE, only a shell of his former self, was an easy target for Al Mello's sharp, driving punches in their ten-round bout at a Suffolk A. A. show at the New Boston Arena.

Mello lopped around front in the first round and had a commanding lead when the tussle ended.

The New England champion carried every round but the second. In this frame Malone made a brilliant finish. He moved round the ring in old time form, making his opponent miss repeatedly, and scoring himself with hard right hand rights to the head and body.

The Cream of the Tobacco Crop

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite

Allan Dwan,
Noted Motion Picture Director,
writes:

"The director of film plays must take even more care of his voice than the actor. Into his voice he must put every emotion that appears upon the faces of the film players. While directing 'The Joy Girl' I used my voice twelve hours daily for weeks—often having to shout directions in the open to ensembles at a great distance. And I always kept my package of 'Lucky Strikes' in my pocket for I have found they are the only cigarettes which I now really enjoy and which I can smoke without impairing my voice. I'm grateful to 'Luckies.'"

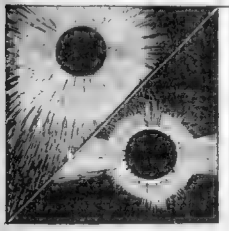
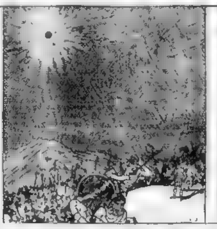
The Story of the Stars (The Winged Corona of the Sun) By Garrett P. Serviss

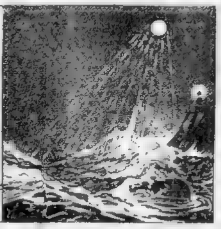


The shape and extent of the "corona" during an eclipse vary with the degree of spottedness of the sun. The upper picture shows the shape when there are many spots, as at present, the lower one when there are few spots.



An ancient record says that once a battle between the Medes and Persians was stopped by the terror caused by an eclipse of the sun. Astronomical calculations show that this must have occurred in 585 B. C.

Babylonian and other ancient oriental temples and monuments often contain a curious winged figure. This is supposed to be a symbolical representation of the "wings" of the corona, as it is seen during total sun eclipses.



More important than the part that the moon plays in eclipses is its agency in producing tides in the Earth's oceans. Its attraction is the chief cause of the rise and fall of the tides twice every day.

Martha Lee's Recipes for Meals That Have to Wait

By MARTHA LEE.

DISHES which do not deteriorate on standing an hour or two have a definite place in our menus. So that's our subject for today—[illegible] binations that will keep moist and warm until the hour to serve them—and you'll be especially glad of these recipes when the golf season is on.

Casserole-cooked foods and molded [illegible] are [illegible]. Of course [illegible] may be kept in excellent condition in the upper part of the [illegible] over hot water [illegible] is no [illegible].

Any molded food may be placed [illegible] persons [illegible] to one.

[illegible] OF EGGS—Quarter [illegible] mushrooms, 3 tbsps. butter, [illegible] water, [illegible] salt, [illegible] pepper, 1-3 tsp. paprika, [illegible] minced parsley, 5 eggs, 2 [illegible] bread crumbs, 4 tbsps. milk.

Wash the mushrooms, remove their skins, slice and simmer gently twelve minutes in a saucepan containing two tbsps. of the butter, the water one-half tsp. of the salt, and the pepper. Turn this mixture, when cooked, into a greased casserole, and add the beaten eggs, to which the remainder of the salt, the paprika, minced parsley and milk have been added. Sprinkle the breadcrumbs on top [illegible] with the remaining one tsp. of butter. Place in a pan of warm water and bake thirty-five to [illegible] minutes.

SUGARED SWEET POTATOES—Six sweet potatoes, four tablespoons [illegible] and one-half [illegible] water, four tablespoons maple [illegible] one teaspoon salt. Select [illegible] sweet potatoes, pare and slice. Place these in a buttered casserole, add the water, and sprinkle the salt and sugar and dots of butter on top. Bake thirty minutes, and then set in a pan of warm water until the meal is served. If one wishes, finely cut squash may be used instead of the sweet potatoes.

SPECIAL SPINACH—Two and one-half cupfuls cooked or steamed spinach, two tablespoons butter, three hard-cooked eggs, one cupful minced ham, one cupful milk, one and one-half tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, [illegible] tablespoons grated cheese, one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Make a sauce of the milk, thickening it with the flour and adding the butter, salt, pepper, and the cooked ham. Place alternate layers of the spinach, sliced egg, and the sauce in a buttered casserole, using a portion of the sauce for the last, or top layer. Sprinkle on the grated cheese, set the baking dish in a pan of warm water, and bake from twenty-five to thirty minutes.

BAKED HAM AND EGGS—One [illegible] milk, one and one-half tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, one [illegible] butter, one pimento, one [illegible] one-quarter cupful cooked ham, [illegible] tablespoons breadcrumbs, six [illegible] cooked eggs.

Make a paste of the flour and a small portion of the milk and use [illegible] to thicken the remainder of the milk. When this sauce [illegible] add butter, salt [illegible] pimento, and the ground ham. [illegible] the bottom of [illegible] with one-half of the bread crumbs and then add alternate layers of sliced eggs and the sauce [illegible] the top with the [illegible] crumbs. Set in a pan of warm water and bake thirty minutes.

Faithfully yours,

"You Said It, Marceline"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY.

ON "KISSING TECHNIQUE."

MANY girls are kissed by
DESIGN—and they KNOW it.
Yet, it seems, there are still
Some girls who WONDER, when
The man KISSES them first, if
It was an ACCIDENT.
But to be KISSED by any Man, even a STRANGE man, is Surely—FATE (And most men
Are a little STRANGE when
They kiss.)
WHY is this, I wonder?
Don't men EVER learn?
A PIANIST, for instance,
Improves at his playing by Constant PRACTICE and
A good TEACHER,
But it seems few men
Improve with KISSING.
Most of them are like a
DISC record—they play
The TUNE the same way
Whoever puts it on.
The MEN, themselves,
Think DIFFERENT. Of course,
Some think they have had POOR
Teachers, but the FACT is Good teachers do not BOTHER with POOR pupils.
That's THAT!

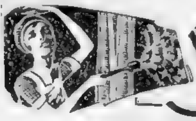
This Day in Our History

THE Battle of Fredericksburg, Va., was fought December 1[illegible], 1862. The commanding generals were General Ambrose E. Burnside, with 100,000 Union men, and General Robert E. Lee, with 78,000 Confederate soldiers.



SALLY'S SHOULDERS

by Beatrice Burton
Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC—

The Story of a Clever Boston Girl and Her Temperamental Sister

CHAPTER XXV.

"WON'T you dance with me now?" Millie's friend, Davidson, asked, smiling down at her.

Sally could feel his gray eyes going over her face. They seemed [illegible] to be [illegible] [illegible] steady light [illegible].

[illegible] away from him [illegible] She hated to be looked at [illegible].

[illegible] want to dance with [illegible] he was asking [illegible] and she shook her head and looked [illegible] Ted [illegible] to get her wraps from the checkroom.

"No, I don't want to dance [illegible] night. The [illegible] so crowded," she answered, looking up at him. "I'm here with Ted [illegible]—you remember [illegible] don't you?—and we just decided to go home."

"No, I don't remember him," the big blond man answered bluntly, never taking his eyes from her. "The only person I remember meeting at your home was yourself."

Sally's color deepened and she [illegible] "What are you doing here?" she asked, quickly changing the subject.

"I've just [illegible] [illegible] from [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] been doing any [illegible] cooking lately," [illegible] as he asked her that.

"Any more cooking?" [illegible] Sally. "Why, I cook every day of my life. Where do you suppose Ted can be? Let's go and look him up."

[illegible] night for supper," he said, in her ear. "I haven't had a real home-cooked meal for so many years that [illegible]

[illegible] she shook her small [illegible] head. [illegible]

All the way home Sally thought [illegible]

But she could not figure out what it meant, so finally she let it go at [illegible].

"What does it matter, anyway?" she [illegible] [illegible] Davidson [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] around the [illegible]

Ted [illegible] put one arm around her and was saying something about being "the champion one-armed driver in the United States."

"Oh, no, you're not," [illegible] answered. Sally [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] what [illegible]

'I Bumped Into Your Friend Davidson Tonight,' She Said

Without a word Ted took them. He raced his car all the rest of the way home, and did not say "Good night" when he left her—not at her door, but at his own on the first floor.

Millie was having a midnight lunch [illegible] listening to the radio in the dining room when Sally walked in to the [illegible].

"My Johnny got some new batteries for the thing," she [illegible] between bites of sardine sandwich. "We were going to a show tonight but we decided to stay at home in [illegible] He's just left."

[illegible] [illegible] Beau sees [illegible] [illegible] Sally [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that seemed never to be real to Sally. [illegible] "Merry Widow" waltz [illegible] [illegible] and it was like a lullaby after the jazz of the ballroom.

"I bumped into your friend Davidson tonight," she said, sitting [illegible] opposite her sister at the table.

Millie shrugged [illegible] shoulders. She had a fork in her right hand [illegible] she was waving [illegible] in her left one. Her satin-soled feet were [illegible] against the edge of the table and she was a perfect picture of lazy grace and sublime indifference.

"And what did he have to say for himself?" she drawled, and yawned as if she were too dead-tired to listen.

But there was a gleam of curiosity in the blue eyes with their long golden lashes. "Did he say anything about me?"

"Of course," Sally told her. "He asked about you."

Millie yawned again, patting her small pink flower of a mouth with two slender fingers.

"Let's see—what happened while you were gone tonight?" she murmured, wearily. "Oh, yes, Aunt Em stopped in and asked us all out to her house for dinner tomorrow. And a check came from Dad at last! For two hundred dollars."

Two hundred dollars! . . . Almost enough to pay the bills! [illegible] and the one to Mr. [illegible] Beau's debts.

And then I'd have my own money clear for the house, thought Sally. "I could pay the rent next week." She was always a couple of weeks behind with the rent, some [illegible]

"Mother's going to buy Beau and Mabel's [illegible] with a hundred of it, so she says. But I made her promise [illegible] the rest of it—I've got to have some Fall clothes if I'm going to trot around with John," whined Millie. "I look like [illegible] as it is, and even Mother [illegible] sense enough to see that I've got to look decent if I'm going to [illegible]"

She pushed her chair back from the table and stood up.

"There was something wrong with the water heater tonight," she [illegible]. "[illegible] there's only enough hot water for one bath. That's yours [illegible], Sally." And she vanished into the bathroom to take the nightly [illegible] bath that both girls took religiously—when there was enough hot water. [illegible]

Left alone, Sally stood looking down at the two radio batteries standing on the floor of the room, under the windows. She looked at them for a long time, and then she bent down and just touched them with her fingers, very gently, as she might have touched the lean, tanned hands of the man who had set them there.

She turned out the lights and went to bed.

Aunt Emily's dinner the next day was a family picnic.

Lacy Shadows Patterned the Grass Beneath the Old Elm Tree

For the day was a hot and sunshiny Sunday and the trees in Aunt Emily's garden were still green and fresh. Lacy shadows patterned the grass beneath the old elm tree, where Aunt Emily had laid a long table[illegible].

Beau and Mabel were there when the others arrived, and Millie kissed everybody and the quarrel was made up.

Mrs. Jerome was more than likely to think that everything in the world was just fine so long as she had plenty of chicken salad, a comfortable garden chair and a daughter to brush the flies and mosquitoes away from her, as Sally was doing now.

But it seemed that everything in the family was not "just fine."

For after dinner Mabel drew Sally away, behind the currant bushes along the fence and told her a story of disillusion and disgust.

"I'm just having the most awful time with Beau," she began, [illegible] not looking at Sally as she talked. "He got paid yesterday noon and last night at 5 o'clock he sailed in with half of his salary gone. He knows a bookmaker and he's been playing the races. He picked the wrong horse, of course. You'd just know he would! And he wears so many clean clothes! You should have seen our laundry bill this week, and I had to pay it! What he had left last night he spent on a quart of liquor and a big tin of cigarettes."

"He's always spent his money that way. I've told you so a thousand times." Sally spoke gravely, her compassionate, understanding eyes on the unhappy face beside her.

"I know you have! But I never believed you 'til now," Mabel answered, frankly. "You see, I was so much in love with him——"

"Aren't you still?" interrupted Sally. "You've been married only a week, you know."

Mabel put her head down on her knees and began to cry.

"Sure I'm in love with him," she went. "Do you think I'd stay with him and pay his board bill and his laundry bill if I didn't love him? I spent every nickel of my salary except two dollars yesterday, Sally, setting up for the week—I tell you, we're just up against it."

Very slowly Sally opened her little gray leather handbag, and took out a five-dollar bill from it. She knew what she was expected to do, and she did it.

"I can only lend you this, Mabsy," she said, folding it into Mabel's eager little paw. "Mother was going to buy you a wedding present, but I'll try to persuade her to give you the money instead. And then you'll have to pay this money back to me. I'm sorry, but I've got to have it again."

"Sure, I'll pay it back! You know I will!" And Mabel jumped up, brushed the tears from her eyes, gave her skirts a shake, and was herself again!

"You're a sweet cookie!" she declared, flatteringly, and hid the money in the top of her rolled stocking.

Tomorrow—It begins to look as though Millie has John well hooked.

Chicago would be interested to see Hobart Chatfield-Taylor here, where he has come "to live forever, or pretty nearly," as he says. In less than four hours, he can give you many good reasons for coming here, if you want to write books, as he does, or if you want to pretend that you are really in heaven, and do nothing at all.

Looking back to his big house in Lake Forest, on the edge of Chicago, exposed to bleak winds from Lake Michigan, he rejoices like a spirit released from an Eskimo purgatory. Why some men that might live here stay in the windy, dusty, slippery, snowy, hurried east, is too much of a puzzle for Hobart Chatfield-Taylor. He has tried all the places on earth and having found Santa Barbara, does not care how long his visit to Paradise is postponed.

Business men, in this region, are disturbed by a suggestion concerning bank stocks, backed by Mr. Mitchell of the National City, and A. P. Giannini of the Bank of Italy, the two biggest banks in America.

Both would take their bank stocks off the stock exchange, to discourage speculation, unbecoming in stocks of that character. Why not follow the British plan and forbid, under heavy penalty, any short selling of bank stocks, while encouraging bona fide investment in such stocks?

When Harry L. Horton, the oldest member of New York Exchange was in his London office, he was much impressed [illegible] the rule against selling [illegible] stock short. If you had [illegible] could sell it. But no speculative selling, only bona fide [illegible] no selling what you did not own.

The heads and employes of banks purchased and included in the Giannini banking organization invariably find that a better offer than before. Citizens see the institution, deal with it, and want to invest in it.

Under the new law, permitting branches, Mr. Mitchell's great New York bank will doubtless spread out to serve scores of business communities, as Mr. Giannini's bank has done already. South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," [illegible] though all four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Bidding

South, because of his worthless singleton, bids one Club in preference to No Trump. North's holding calls for a bid of [illegible] Hearts rather than No Trump. East, by reason of his strong holding in Hearts, bids [illegible] [illegible] further bidding, [illegible] possibly of No Trump [illegible] a defensive bid [illegible] South, with [illegible] doubly stopped and [illegible] of his partner's [illegible] No Trump [illegible]

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. Against a No Trump declaration the leader [illegible] three cards of [illegible] headed by a single [illegible] than the ten [illegible] his lowest card. By returning [illegible] honor over [illegible] Declarer's [illegible], he may often [illegible] the [illegible] expectation of taking two tricks in the suit.

Trick 2. With the Deuce in Dummy, Declarer [illegible] that the trey must have been West's lowest Diamond. If a singleton, then East must have seven Diamonds to the Ace Queen 10, which did not seem probable. If not a singleton, then the three must have been either West's fourth best, or the lowest of three to an honor higher than the 10, and this honor must have been the Queen. If West held four Diamonds, then East would have held but four. With the indication of strong [illegible] Declarer considered [illegible] likely. Declarer therefore concluded that West [illegible] three to the Queen and consequently passes his King to the second trick, leaving the Queen with West [illegible] the suit. If East cannot enter with a Heart the balance of his Diamonds though established cannot be made.

Trick 3. Assuming that the Spade suit will break, Declarer must even then make two Heart tricks for game. [illegible] Ace and Jack [illegible] but if [illegible] 9 can force the Ace while West is still blocking East's Diamond suit game is assured. Declarer therefore finesses the 9 of Hearts. The finesse failing, the contract is set one trick.

OUR MR. FRISBY'S FINANCIAL CHART

"Buy Low and Sell High" Is Tip From Wizard

Little girl, whose wholesome letter goes straight to Mr. Frisby's heart.

By MISTER FRISBY

A TINY tot writes me asking what I think of One-Armed Lunches, Consolidated.

"Is it true," she writes in a bold, round hand, "that one should buy low and sell high?"

Her letter touched me. I sat re-reading it, while tears streaked down my cheeks, and the paper fluttered in my trembling hand.

Suddenly the sun broke through the clouds, and I could not help but feel that, after all, what does it matter if it be a one-armed lunch or a two-armed lunch, if the food is wholesome and one does not have to walk too far for one's drinking water?

A little poem came to my mind. I shall repeat it here, for fear there are others cross and irritable—

Who profits most?
Who scoffs at Dame Prosperity!
It is not he
Who profits most?
It is the man
Who grasps at every coin he can.

Haberdashers report an unnecessary number of necktie sales to women shoppers. Husbands are warned to take no chances, but shoot themselves on sight.

If you think your wife is about to buy a Christmas necktie—

1. Run, don't walk, to the nearest drug store.
2. Purchase a small bottle of Jama'ca ginger.
3. Drink contents. In fifteen minutes you won't care whether she buys a necktie or not.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

Don't say ain't—'tain't is right.

Color is being successfully used in treating illness in one London hospital; delicate shades of mauve, green, and yellow replace the customary whitewash of such places?

Sour Stomach
Two-Minute Relief!

Yes, those sour risings and the unsettled condition after too hearty a meal can be gone for good, in a couple of minutes. The magnesia, calcium carbonate, and other soothing things in Stuart tablets start to work the moment they're swallowed! And for lasting benefits, make the famous Monday-to-Sunday test.

Wherever you find a drugstore, you'll find Stuart's. The handy metal box for purse or pocket (enough for the one-week test) is a quarter. The large size for 60 cts., and the family size, $1.20. A sweet stomach for twenty-five cents.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND.

THIS is the tragic time of year, when a bachelor trembles at the thought of what the women will give him, and the married man trembles at the thought of what they'll take away from him.

Man was once a savage and could express himself to a woman only in grunts and dumb signs. Now he is civilized, and has added baby-talk, profanity and alibis to his vocabulary.

Long engagements are a form of mutual monopoly, in which love just naturally dies of suffocation.

* * *

What can you expect of a modern man, when even a wise man like Solomon had nine hundred and ninety-nine changes of heart before he found out what kind of a girl really appealed to him?

* * *

Nowadays it is a tossup whether a girl would rather have enough "It" to get a rich husband, or enough money to buy a fascinating one.

* * *

No man can be entirely spontaneous and natural with a girl until he feels sure he has convinced her that he is "NOT the marrying kind" Then, she can go right ahead and lead him to the altar, without even bothering to put blinders on him.

* * *

When a young widow's mourning is too becoming, a man doesn't know whether to look upon it as a warning or as an invitation.

Telling a man that it is foolish or dangerous for him to love you, that you are too young, too old, too sad or too busy for love, is merely trying to put out the fire by throwing gasoline on it.

* * *

One reason why a man is always so cheerful and philosophic is that no matter how much of his life lies behind him, he always feels that there is another woman waiting somewhere ahead of him.

* * *

To die for love may take courage; but to marry for it is the real test of heroism, these material days.

Three Minute Trips

By TEMPLE MANNING.

ONCE every ten years there is presented in the little German village of Oberammergau the great "Passion Play." The event attracts world-wide interest, for not only is the play itself a thing of surprising beauty, but the excellence of its performance is indeed a thing at which to marvel.

Through the long ten years the people of the village rehearse their parts in the play, and there is no one, from the smallest child to the oldest man, who has not some place in the performance.

In order to keep themselves in practice, the people give each Spring a series of folk plays, miracle plays and so on, supposedly for themselves alone. But people from all over flock to see the entertainment, and all will attest to its excellence.

Through the long Winter evenings, the people meet in their practice theatre, and rehearse both for the great "Passion Play," and for the annual festival. And everyone in the entire village has his part: if not as an actor then in the chorus, for the beautiful singing is an important adjunct.

Indeed, the interest in these proceedings is so intense that no discipline among the children is necessary, order being kept by the simple threat of not permitting a wayward child to take part in the performance.

But the people of Oberammergau are not only histrionically talented. They are artists as well. They are world-famous for their exquisite wood-carvings, which are exported and sold all over the world. The mastery of this art is considered as necessary to education as is simple reading, writing and 'rithmetic.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

THERE'S an old saying that "Time and tide wait for no man." This may be true, but practically everybody waits for women.

ONE fellow who's been married less than six months has already worn out three street corners.

HE makes a date with his wife for 6:30 and she shows up on Wednesday.

HE uses a calendar for a stop watch.

SHE'S the kind of a woman who'd be late for her own funeral.

SHE'D even keep the undertaker waiting.

THEY'VE been going to the opera for eight years and have never heard anything but the exit march.

WHILE her husband is not a widower, he refers to her as his late wife.

SHE won't even be on time for Judgment Day.

GABRIEL will have to blow his horn fifteen minutes earlier.

IT takes her so long to live, she's seven years behind in her birthdays.

HER children will soon be older than she is.

SHE'S slower than a mud turtle touring through Kansas.

SHE could use a century plant for a speedometer.

SHE dresses up to the minute, and it's usually the last one.

SHE wears practically nothing, but it takes her two hours and a half to put it on.

SHE never belonged to any college clubs. Not even a sorority could rush her.

HER husband finally solved the problem. He makes a date with her now for six thirty, shows up at nine and only has a couple of hours to wait.

IRENEE DU PONT TELLS OF FAMILY SPECULATION

Irenee du Pont, vice-chairman of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., issued a statement that he and several other members of the Du Pont family have purchased a considerable block of U. S. Rubber common as a speculative investment. The purchase has been made by them as individuals. The Du Pont Co. itself has no interest whatever in United States Rubber.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

RADIO DIALOG

by

C. WILLIAM RADOS

JUST strolling around town and saw Bob Emery, Big Brother. Bob is back from a trip to Chicago during which he drove the biggest locomotive in the British Empire and didn't blow a tire. He went up by way of Montreal and wonders why no Canadian station has hooked up with N. B. C. Canada might have some good broadcasting thus.

Kept going, and saw that WBZ was also stepping out. Couple of announcers there have definitely entered the concert stage, and if critics are truthful, the announcers are not so bad.

• • •

Some people may not believe it when they hear that an announcer is receiving mail. A few weeks ago we were in a studio when Robert Burien spent ten minutes in some light humor. It was funny. So help us if the phone didn't ring a dozen times in the next few minutes all congratulating Bob Burien.

• • •

New York, having every other kind of broadcaster on the air, now has WCDA, an Italian broadcaster. The program manager sends us the weekly release with his "compliments." Not so bad, John, only we wish to goodness you'd put enough postage on the envelope. The program for next Saturday night is something like this:

6:30—Miguel Sandoval, pianist.
6:45—"Laws on Immigration," by Mons. Germain Formica.
8:00—Bank of Sicily Serenaders.
8:30—Lina Benelli, coloratura soprano.
8:45—Saturno Risoli, tenore.
9:00—Clara Foster, dramatic soprano.
9:15—Paramount Trio.
9:45—Concetta Rifici, soptano.
10:00—Teresa Soto, Mexican soprano.
10:15—Michele Petracca, cello.

In case the Boston theatres have no attendance Saturday night they can blame us for inducing the whole city to stay home and trying to get WCDA.

• • •

In yesterday's New York papers we read Irvin S. Cobb was about to sail for South America. Before he gets away to a land of nuts, monkeys, and parrots the radio audience will get a chance to hear him this evening. Last year Irvin got a similar job with the Eveready people but it only lasted for an hour like tonight's.

In that hour Irvin S. was slightly impressed by the unfriendly and cold attitude of the microphone. So he didn't do so well. Tonight Irvie gets back at them by discussing how "mike fright" affects great artists.

We hope he has a nice time in South America and resolutely refuses to become a presidential candidate.

In yesterday's news stories the well wishing writers of the Atwater Kent prize broadcast spoke of the 8,000,000 people who listened. Maybe the Colonial Theatre will come out with a story of the "69,000 people attending opening night. Show falls flat due to small attendance."

• • •

Since there is no way to prove that less than 8,000,000 people listened they can't be challenged. But there is also no way to prove that 50,000,000 people didn't listen. Why not use the latter figure.

JAIL DELIVERY AT PORTLAND FRUSTRATED

Portland, Me., Dec. 13 (A.P.).—Discovery of nine hack-saw blades, believed to have been smuggled into Cumberland County Jail in a plot by four prisoners to saw their way to freedom through a double set of bars, was made known today by Sheriff King F. Graham, who is conducting an investigation.

John L. Lewis of New York city, held on charges of attempting to hold up the cashier of the Jefferson Theatre and to rob Louis H. Emanuel, counterman at Temple Lunch, was implicated in the plot, the officials alleged, also Blair S. Dixon, a Massachusetts salesman, held on several charges of stealing automobiles.

NEW VACCINE LABORATORY IS OPENED INFORMALLY

Many prominent State, city and college officials visited the two-story brick addition to Bussey Institute, South street, Jamaica Plain, today during informal opening by the Massachusetts State Department of Health, which conducts an antitoxin and vaccine laboratory there.

Vaccines and anti-toxins are manufactured there by the State for free distribution in Massachusetts. It is also used by students of Harvard Medical School and Harvard School of Public Health.

COOLIDGE NAMES BRIGGS BROCKTON POSTMASTER

Washington, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—President Coolidge today made the following nominations for postmaster: Maine: Bangor, William F. Holder. Massachusetts: Brockton, Lawrence T. Briggs; New Bedford, Harold Winslow; North Adams, James T. Potter.

MILFORD VOTES FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Milford, Dec. 13 (A.P.).—In a spirited town meeting citizens voted 216 to 124 to build a 14-room, three-story high school building, connected with the present high school structure. The cost will be between $275,000 and $300,000.

GARDNER will receive bids until 11 a. m., Dec. 20, for $100,000 3¾ per cent. school bonds dated Dec. 1.

Addresses Coal Men

The New England Wholesale Coal Dealers' Association at its monthly meeting at the Hotel Statler was addressed by Daniel T. Pierce of New York, vice-chairman of anthracite operators' conference. George Copeland presided.

Tonight!

If you held South's hand, in the Bridge deal below, and were Declarer, with Spades trumps, could you make game if the opponents opened your suit? Would you get the trumps out at once? How would you play the Diamonds? See what success you have with this hand now. Then tune in with and see how Mr. Whitehead out-generals his opponents!

WEEI-10:00-10:30 P.M.-EST

SUSPEND JAIL TERM OF DRUNKEN DRIVER

Newburyport, Dec. 13.—Remarking that the punishment for drunken drivers in most cases was insufficient Judge Jones sentenced Leo Bayko to ten days in jail and fined him $100 for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and imposed another fine of $15 for drunkenness. The jail term was suspended for two years.

Bayko might have escaped detection if Probation Officer Frost's automobile had not been in his way when he started his car. He bumped Frost's car and caused slight damage.

FREE THEATRE TICKETS METROPOLITAN THEATRE THIS WEEK

"SERENADE" and "MARCHING ON"

FOR the 25 best letters received from Evening American readers stating why you prefer trading with the concerns whose advertisements appear in the "Who's Who" columns we will give a pair of tickets to the

METROPOLITAN THEATRE

Three of the winning letters will be published below each week and each of the 25 winners will be notified by mail.

Letters should not exceed 100 words, and should be addressed to the Classified Advertising Manager, Boston Evening American.

Dear Sir—

If prospective car owners of 1928 want prompt and courteous service, I highly recommend the Compulsory Automobile Insurance Car Owners Mutual Insurance Co., of 65 Franklin Street.

My husband purchased a car and wanting to use it at once, the question arose, how could he get his registration plates and insurance at once. A friend advised the Compulsory Automobile Insurance Car Owners Mutual Insurance Co.

Hurrying to their office at 65 Franklin Street we stated our case and with the help of one of their assistants received our plates, paid our insurance and we were on the road safe and secure. All in two hours' time.

To save time and worry be safe and sure. Visit their office at 65 Franklin St. at once. Your car deserves the best protection obtainable.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Gladys Merlaon,
20 Mayberry Ave., Medford, Mass.

Gentlemen—

My idea of a well spent evening in town is incomplete without a sojourn in "The Recreation." Congeniality prevails, the service can't be beat and the environment and spirit manifest merits its association as a club.

As a medium of healthy exercise bowling and billiards certainly is a wonderful tonic for your nervous fatigue.

"The Recreation" billiard and bowling club needs no endorsement to the public but I am glad of this opportunity to thank the management for its well conducted establishment.

With pleasure,
Dr. Frank Hiter,
435 Broadway, South Boston.

Dear Editor—

As I had a perfectly good coat, I decided to economize by matching a pair of trousers to it. I spent hours going from one store to another and finally went home thoroughly disgusted, for the kind of trousers I wanted were not to be had.

Talking over my poor success with my uncle, he told me to go to McPherson's, where he had traded for years, and I would find what I wanted. He was right—McPherson's had the best line of trousers in the city and I found my match.

Yours truly,
M. P. Campbell,
214 Highland St., Milton, Mass.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

The Useful Spoken Play

The New Tax Bill Is Not Satisfactory to Either Producers or Patrons of This Cultural Asset

The new tax bill exempts from the wartime 10 per cent. "nuisance" toll all admissions to theatres costing $1 or less.

That is eminently satisfactory to the millions of Americans who attend the movies. It is especially satisfactory to owners of film theatres who have themselves paid this tax rather than put patrons to the annoyance of making awkward change.

It is not satisfactory at all to either producers or patrons of the spoken drama. They are both at a tremendous disadvantage. In many cities they have given up the ghost. In all but a few large cities they are facing a decline in revenues which threatens at no distant time to remove them from the scene.

The spoken play is a cultural asset, distinct and unique. No other form of entertainment can fill its place. Its disappearance would be an irreparable loss to American civilization.

To some extent its plight is due to wilful errors in judgment and taste among its producers. Correction of these is in process. It will be made difficult if the wholesome plays are confined by high costs, including taxes, to the larger cities. For the spoken play needs the financial, intellectual and moral support of the mass of the people. It cannot function as it should if only a few communities are permitted to see it.

National necessity laid this tax, and while the necessity was clear the tax was paid willingly. But does national necessity require its continuance? The Congress should be very sure that it does before it approves the recommendation before it.

Plenty for Christmas?

How to Make Sure of It

If ever a happy idea originated among the savings bank men of America—and we know that many good ideas have come from them—it was that of the Christmas savings club.

We do not know how much has been set aside for the relief of Santa Claus by the Christmas clubs this year, but in Massachusetts the sum will run into the MILLIONS.

Consider a few sample figures:

Palmer, $120,000; Leominster, $217,000; Haverhill, $404,633.97; Salem, $440,282,25; Quincy, $642,000; Lowell, $800,000.

A considerable part of the immense amount that has been piled up will find its way into the stores, stimulating trade.

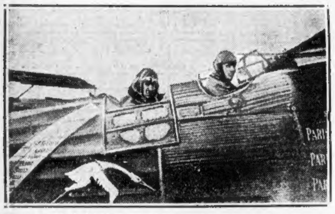
But not all will be spent for presents. Much of the money will go into savings accounts.

One of the best features of this method of providing for the next Christmas is that the money is saved before it is spent. There is nothing objectionable in buying on instalments, if you know what you are about, but no one will deny that spot cash is better.

The way to have spot cash when you need it is to form the habit of making deposits in a friendly savings bank and making them REGULARLY.

The Thing Is Done

Distance, Danger, Death Can't Stop Man's Will



TWO FRENCH FLIERS

This is the airship "Nungesser-Coli," named for the two plucky French war fighters that died in the attempt to cross the Atlantic. Their ship went down, and they went with it. But that does not frighten other Frenchmen or keep them from taking up flying where Nungesser and Coli left off.

Lieutenant LeBrix and Captain Costes flew from Paris to South America. One stage of their flight, a hop of 2,000 miles across the Atlantic, was made in 21 hours and 15 minutes.

Thus the thing to be done IS done. Lindbergh proved the quality of our young Americans when he made his marvelous flight all alone, in a tiny machine, 3,600 miles in a little more than 33 hours. That rate of speed, 3,600 miles in 33 hours, means that a machine could fly around the world in ten days.

Flying across the Atlantic has ALREADY been accomplished, in the first few years of flying. What will fliers of the future do, when flying machines are built as long as ocean liners, with engines of 10,000-horsepower?

The whole world will fly as soon as it is ready.

A non-stop flight across the Atlantic will be followed by non-stop flights across the Pacific Ocean. May this country be prepared for trouble, in case any of these flights should suddenly become hostile and be aimed in our direction.

WORKING, SAVING IS PROSPERITY BASIS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

AFTER you get through arguing and reasoning, disputes are often settled by the appearance of a large, full-sized fact.

The significant fact in the world today is that capitalistic America is enormously prosperous, while socialistic Russia is practically a bankrupt.

This profit does not come from people whose income depends upon dividends, rents and such things, which are called the unearned increment, but it comes from the savings of wages by workers. The recently published figures of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington show that wage workers receive annually vastly more than those who live on incomes. About half of the collections from income-tax levies during 1925-26 come from workers and less than 10 per cent. of the workers pay income taxes.

Most of the theories which rail at the capitalistic system are idle. They cannot stand up against the conclusive proof that working and saving is the basis of America's prosperity and not her hoarded wealth.

The wealth of a country lies in its labor, not in its money bags. Nowhere else on earth does so large a number of people work so much, spend so much and save so much as here. Our proudest possession is our workers. Without their efforts hoarded capital would be useless.

It is their investments which constitute our great units of capital. It makes this country the ideal place for a man to spend his active years in gainful labor and for him to save up enough to take care of himself in old age. We have opportunity and safety. Nowhere else are jobs so plentiful and wages so high, nowhere else is capital so secure, and because capital is secure the jobs of laborers are secure.

No wonder that all the efforts of the officials of Mexico seem not able to stop the flow of emigrants from that country to this. No wonder the peoples of Europe are making every effort to come to this country. In the end it is economic reasons that have their way.

All appeals to patriotism and standing by the flag and so on fall when they are confronted by an empty stomach.

The capitalistic country of the United States remains a mecca for those who want simply an opportunity to work and security for their savings.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

HAVE you ever tried to find one bright road whose turnings wind between meadows ever gay, where the friendliest breezes stray? Have you, worn with each day's load, sought again for Childhood's Road, that one road on all the earth where all miles are miles of mirth? Just to wander gladly there, leaving every grief and care, would you not with joy resign much that [illegible] holds dear and fine? There's one way, and one alone; though the sages have not shown path to joys the worldly lack, yet a child can guide you back. With a child you can forget all earth's folly, all its fret, and serene in spirit go down bright ways you used to know. Childhood's gladness thrusts aside longings still unsatisfied; childhood's laughter rings, and then you tread Childhood's Road again!

Boston DAY by DAY

GEORGE W. COLEMAN, founder of the Ford Hall Forum, which is now known as a social laboratory, is on a trip around the world. For the first time in twenty years he has taken a real vacation, so the trip which has just started will not end until next April.

Just about the time hundreds of his friends will be reading this, Mr. Coleman will be landing in Madeira. His itinerary includes the Far East and Europe.

Reuben L. Lurie, attorney and relative of Judge David Lourie, gives much time to public service. Professional men are extremely busy at this time of year. Yet Mr. Lurie finds time to devote a day or two each week to the assistance of the Legal Aid Society, in addition to his duties as a lawyer and the editor of a social progress weekly.

The late Charles F. Choate, Jr., it is said, once earned a fee of $50,000 for one word. A Boston railroad company wished to engage on a project the legality of which was uncertain. As the matter was extremely complicated the company wished to make sure it would be allowed to proceed. It engaged Mr. Choate as advisor. The whole case was read and explained to him as he sat silently absorbing the problem. Finally, when all the cards were on the table, the railroad representative turned to Mr. Choate and asked if the proposal was lawful.

"No," was the answer, and Mr. Choate collected $50,000. So it is said.

Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Commissioner of Agriculture for Massachusetts, is one of New England's most versatile men. Just a few of his activities would fill the lifetime of an average man. He is chairman of the Board of Health in Belmont and a prime mover in the governor's milk commission. Formerly Dr. Gilbert was on the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, technical expert with the League of Nations, and a member of the Roman Institute of Agriculture.

Dr. Gilbert never said so, but he is probably the best mixer in New England in the sense that he can adapt himself to any gathering. Although a nationally known authority on all that pertains to farming, he is so well informed he can deliver an interesting address on most any subject.

Dr. Gilbert's latest hobby is the boys' camp in West Brookfield. Two Summers ago, Dr. Gilbert took over the farm on which he was born for a camp of instruction where rich men's sons could learn about the basic industry of mankind—agriculture. In the two Summers it has been running, its worth has been proven.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

LIFE'S too easy for most of us. We have too many push buttons to do the things for us which our granddads did for themselves with the sweat of their brows and the heave of their biceps. As a result, an increasing number of us are sitting around, picking our souls and raising Cain. Talking smart and acting naughty to show how brave and free and advanced we are. Pooh!

Crime wave? There's something worse than a crime wave happening to this country. There's a laziness wave, a softness wave, a smartiness wave, that is going to do more harm than all the robbery and murder put together.

Too many theories about living—too little actual life.

We talk about struggle—what do most of us know about struggle? I know a lot of emaciated, educated young women who put up an awful yelp if they're asked to "struggle" through one evening alone at home with the baby. And a number of our most dauntless young males who'd faint if they had to struggle for ten minutes with a spading fork.

"But we can hire people to take care of babies and spade gardens," they say.

Agreed. BUT YOU CAN'T HIRE PEOPLE TO CREATE SELF CONTROL FOR YOU OR PATIENCE OR PERSISTENCE OR GRIT.

No one ever experienced life by paying someone to do it for them. Or by reading about it—or talking about it—or by going through a lot of smarty motions while someone else pays the bills.

THE ONLY WAY YOU CAN EXPERIENCE LIFE IS TO GO OUT AND HAVE IT BUST YOU ONE IN THE JAW.

Face hunger—face poverty—face dirt—face ridicule—face sacrifice—face hard work—face failure—face loneliness and monotony and discouragement and danger—and death. DARE TO BE CRUCIFIED AND TOTE YOUR OWN CROSS!

If you don't, you're going to be told this once. Americans were poor and despised and forsaken. They had been kicked out of England. They had to root hog or die. And out of that rooting in actual mud, and spiritual loam, rose a Vision. And out of that Vision came a Nation. A red blooded Nation. A Nation with a backbone and guts.

HOW FRIGHTFUL LIFE IS!
THIMPLY APPALLING!
ELSIE ROBINSON

THE SPIRIT of 1927

And now we, their push button descendants, expect to cash in on their efforts. We can't do it. We can't live on second-hand spunk or fourth generation sweat.

LIFE'S TOO EASY. LOOK OUT AMERICA!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

It is pleasing to be pointed at with the finger and to have it said, "There goes the man."—Persius.

In the great inconstancy and crowd of events, nothing is certain except the past.—Seneca.

They are raised on high that they may be dashed to pieces with a greater fall.—Claudian.

Content with poverty, my soul I arm;
And virtue, though in rags, will keep me warm. —Dryden.

The direct foe of courage is the fear itself, not the object of it; and the man who can overcome his own terror is a hero and more.
—MacDonald.

Sensible people find nothing useless.—La Fontaine.

'Tis safer to be that which we destroy
Than by destruction dwell in doubtful joy.—Macbeth.

'Twas a light that made
Darkness itself appear
A thing of comfort.—Southey.

Not all the labor of the earth
Is done by hardened hands.
Will Carleton.

Life is pure flame and we live by an invisible sun within us.
—Sir Thomas Browne.

When nature has work to be done, she creates a genius to do it.
—Emerson.
